Mystery in Bathtub Death

PUSH INTO SERBIA

TEUTONS FORGING AHEAD

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—Germany has protested to Greece against the landing of Anglo-French troops at Salonika. No reply has yet been received.

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—The great Austro-German offensive against Serbia is making marked progress. The German War Office, in an official statement today, announced that the Teutonic allies have penetrated Serbia southwest of Belgrade. In the fighting there the Teutonic forces captured four officers, 296 men and two machine guns.

These captures were made by the Austro-German forces that invaded Serbia across the Save River.

Dispatches from Sofia say that passports have been handed to the Bulgarian minister, and that he is preparing to leave at once. Diplomatic relations between Serbia and Bulgaria are now severed.

An unconfirmed report comes from Geneva that Serbia has declared war against Bulgaria.

Bulgarian troops are being sent to

Lieut. Montesquieu Killed in Battle

By International News Service.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant Leon de Montesquieu, a Royalist and descendant of two marshals of France, was killed while leading a charge in Champagne against the Germans. J. P. Dubois, an American volunteer, was wounded in the same charge.

To Erect K. of C. Building in Fenway

The Knights of Columbus have decided to erect their building in the Fenway section. Cardinal O'Connell has offered the knights, at minimum cost, 45,000 feet of land owned by the Archdiocesan Corporation, facing Boylston road and extending through to Ipswich street. McGinnis & Walsh are the architects.

King Prefers Abdication to Peace Disgrace

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—That King George of England threatened to abdicate if Premier Asquith consented to an inconclusive peace is the assertion made in today's Sun, and attributed to a passenger just arrived from England on the liner New York. The story quotes King George as saying to the Premier:

"If ever this war ends in an inconclusive and disgraceful peace, I shall abdicate the throne. I would never continue to occupy it or allow one of my children to occupy it if such an eternal disgrace and humiliation were to be inflicted on the British empire in this war, and for us an inconclusive peace means defeat."

City Program for Columbus Day

The Director of Public Celebrations today made public the Columbus Day program, for Tuesday. At 10:30 there will be a Fan-American meeting in Faneuil Hall where Professor George H. Blakeslee will speak on "Pan-Americanism." The oration will be delivered by former Congressman James Thompson McCleary of Minnesota, whose subject will be "Columbus." Mayor Curley will preside, an orchestra will furnish music and students of the High School of Commerce will be ushers. In the evening there will be a display of fireworks on the Common. In the display many of the noisy features of previous exhibitions will be omitted. In the words of Chairman James H. Phelan, there will be "more for the eye and less for the ear."

Walsh to Confer with Bristol Leaders

Governor Walsh, accompanied by Chairman Michael A. O'Leary of the Democratic State Committee, will go to Taunton tonight to confer with the chairman of city and town Democratic committees of Bristol County. Governor Walsh will map out his line of campaign.

James Kirby, Head of Brotherhood, Dead

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 8.—James Kirby, president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, died today.

FIND BODY OF WOMAN IN BATH

Mrs. Bowdoin B. Crowninshield, forty, wife of B. B. Crowninshield, the famed naval architect and designer of Boston and Marblehead, was found dead in an overflowing bath tub of scalding water in a room in the Parker House early today.

Mystery surrounds the cause of her death. Medical Examiner George B. Magrath, who viewed the body shortly after it was found, stated that death was due to immersion, but would give no information regarding the manner of death, stating that an autopsy will be performed today.

REGISTERED AS MRS. BOWDOIN.

Mrs. Crowninshield registered at the hotel about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She signed the register as Mrs. Bowdoin of Boston. She was assigned to Room 160, on the third floor. She was not heard from until half past seven, when she requested that some sandwiches be sent to her room. It has been said by persons who were in the room that two bottles of wine were on the table. No liquor, however, was charged up to her account by the hotel management.

Shortly before 1 o'clock this morning a guest in Room 60[illegible] directly beneath the room in which the dead

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—Here is the complete story of the first World's Series game, showing every detail of the play.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Red Sox—The first ball pitched was a ball. Hooper cleanly singled through the box on the second ball pitched. The Red Sox rooters cut loose.

Scott looked a strike over and Alec kept Hooper hugging first. Scott bunted, sacrificing Hooper to second, Alec fielding the ball to Luderus.

Tris Speaker faced Alex for the first time in his career and a strike was called. The second ball pitched was also a strike, cutting the plate perfectly. The next one was a ball. 2 to 1 on Speaker with Hooper on second. Tris fouled one over the grandstand. Speaker now stood two strikes and two balls called. Another foul. Alexander was in the hole three and two and apparently did not relish the situation as Burns strolled up to the pitcher's box to consult with the twirler. Tris smoked another one with a foul. Tris took first on a base on balls, the rooters from Boston making themselves known.

Hoblitzell rapped to Bancroft, who got Tris at second on the throw to Niehoff. However, Hooper made third. This inning came to a sudden close when Alex caught Hobby off first, sound and easy. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Philadelphia—Stock, facing Shore drew a ball, but the rangy boy put one over for a strike, followed by another, Cady retired the batter, running in front of the Philadelphia dugout for the catch.

Bancroft had the first one for a strike and lifted the second for an infield fly under which Scott and Barry ran. They came close to a collision, but Barry held it for the out.

Paskert loked the first one over for a ball, but Hobby ran back and caught a foul, retiring the side. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING.

Red Sox—Duffy Lewis made the crowd sit up and take notice by whaling the first ball pitched into the left field bleachers. It was a foul, but a beautiful drive. The second went over the stand for a foul, but the next ball pitched was a beautiful single to left field.

Two balls were called on Gardner, both being wide at the plate. Gardner dumped a sacrifice nicely to the right of Alexander, putting Lewis on second.

When Jack Barry came to the plate the Philadelphians gave him an ovation, but he bit to three shapely pitches, leaving Lewis off second base too far for him to entice a steal.

Alex held the situation well in hand and let Lewis travel third, throwing to Stock. Harry raced to second, where the play was made on him, but was safe. Then Dancroft bagged Lewis for the out. Cady looked two cool ones and two bad ones over. Burns saved Alexander from a wild pitch by a clever stop. Cady closed the inning by making a very wide swing for a strike-out. NO RUNS. ONE HIT. NO ERRORS.

Philadelphia—Cravath, the home run hitter showed that they had to pitch to him, and the fourth a wide one, made it appear that Shore had purposely passed the slugger.

Luderus hit to Barry and Cravath ran way out of the line, being declared out by O'Loughlin, but the play at first was so delayed that Barry's throw came too late, the Philadelphia first sacker being declared safe.

The sun remained out, dispelling the dampness, and the wind died down before game time and the crowds found overcoats and furs unnecessary.

The playing field, however, was a sorry sight. Oil was burned to dry off the diamond.

GROUNDS IN BAD SHAPE.

While a band played selections from "Faust" shortly afternoon, the men who had worked from dawn to get the grounds in shape spilled carboys of gasoline on the scraped turf and set fire to it. The flames and smoke rose as from a broken fire and strangers had no difficulty in finding the park.

But even with all the scraping, rolling, sawdust and gasoline, a baseball diamond could not well have been in worse shape than was the Phillies' park this afternoon. Sawdust spread nearly ankle deep oozed in soft mud promising heavy going for the baserunners.

At 1 o'clock Managers Moran and Carrigan appeared at the plate to shake hands for the benefit of the photographers, following the ancient custom.

RED SOX WILDLY CHEERED.

The Phillies received a tremendous ovation from the crowd when they trotted on the field for their practice, but the crowd showed an impartial spirit by loosening a wild roar for the 33 red-hosed gladiators from Boston, who followed the home outfit onto the field at 1:20.

A band and a few soloists furnished one part of the entertainment for the crowd. The other part came when the Phillies hammed the horsehide against fences and into the bleachers in batting practice.

The batting practice of the Phillies, however, was not inspiring. The ball fell into the soggy outfield, where it lay, stuck in the soft turf.

The Royal Rooters—600 of them—from Boston whooped up things considerably when the Red Sox took the field. The Rooters, who occupied a section in the third-base side of the grand stand, were armed with an assortment of blue and white and red and white pennants, which they waved to the accompaniment of their cheers.

GREAT CROWD IN EARLY RUSH

NATIONAL LEAGUE BASEBALL PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—With more than 20,000 excited men and women—fully a third of them women—jamming the stands, the first game of the World's Series between the Phillies and Red Sox began soon after 2 p. m., with clear skies, cool weather and a muddy field.

Alexander, the mighty speed king of the Phillies, pitched for the National Leaguers, and Ernest Shore, the long, thin Boatonian, hove for the Red Sox. Burns caught for Philadelphia, Cady for Boston. Otherwise the lineups were the same as previously announced.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the man upon whose mighty right arm depends a large portion of the Phillies' hopes for a world championship, worked out alone for the Phillies. The "Pitching king" seemed to have more "smoke" than ever before and his terrific speed kept Catcher Jack Adams, who caught him in practice, jumping back after every other throw.

At 1:55 o'clock the bleachers were full, and practically all the reserved seat ticket holders were in the park. It was a capacity crowd, which was estimated at about 20,300.

Carrigan, after watching all of his pitchers work out for fifteen minutes, sent all of them to the dugout with the exception of the youthful Shore, the big right-hander, who made a great showing in pitching practice.

The umpires were distributed as follows: Klem behind the bat, O'Loughlin on the bases, Rigler on the right field foul line and Evans on the left field foul line.

BLEACHERITES OUT EARLY.

The long suffering bleacherites came into their own when the first box-holders and reserved seat fans began to arrive. They were the humble, dollar fans, the real supporters of the national pastime, most of whom had waited in mud all night.

The bleacher gates were opened at 11 o'clock and long before noon every bleacher seat was filled.

Some of the fans had brought rations sufficient for twenty-four or forty-eight hours and many of them meant to camp on the park all night if posible to be on hand for tomorrow's game when President Wilson and his fiancee, Mrs. Galt, would be among the notables.

WORLD'S SERIES GAME

THIRD—Shore out, Niehoff to Luderus. Hooper flied to Whitted. Scott singled to left centre. Speaker out on a fly to Whitted. NO RUNS.

Burns flied to Scott. Alexander scratched a single. Stock forced Alexander, Gardner to Barry. Bancroft out to Hobby, unassisted. NO RUNS.

FOURTH—Hobby out, Niehoff to Luderus. Lewis struck out. Gardner singled over second. Barry hit a short fly to Cravath. NO RUNS.

Phillies	0 0 0 1

Shore and Cady; Alexander and Burns.

Luderus attempted to steal second, but Cady had the ball in Barry's hands waiting for him for the second out. Whitted, the former Brave, was given his base on balls. As Whitted started to steal second, Niehoff, who couldn't see Shore, struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

REPORT MAIL CAR ROBBED OF A MILLION

By International News Service.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 8.—Boarding a westbound New York-St. Louis train on the Baltimore & Ohio at Central, W. Va., fifty miles east of here, at 3 o'clock this morning, while the train was taking water, two masked men forced the engineer and fireman to uncouple the locomotive and mail car and then drove the mail car to Tolignia, six miles west of Central, where they rifled the car and escaped in an automobile held in waiting by a confederate.

According to reports at West Union the safe in the mail car had $1,000,000 in unsigned currency. The bills were of such denomination that the bandits, should they escape, could scan and probably pass them.

Three hundred dollars in cash was also taken. A score of detectives have arrived on the scene. Sheriff Netter, with four automobiles filled with men heavily armed, is pursuing the bandits.

Jail Sentences Ordered for 2 Auto Drivers

Clarence I. Worcester, twenty-eight years, a Boston broker, living at Winchester, was sentenced today in the Cambridge District Court to two weeks in the House of Correction on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He appealed and was held in $200. Police Sergeant Aberle testified that early today Worcester drove his machine into an iron post on which was a red lantern marking the so-called "danger zone" on Massachusetts avenue near Pearl street.

After pleading guilty to a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor in Arlington in June, John R. McArdle was sentenced in the Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge today to two weeks in the House of Correction.

PRESIDENT AND FIANCEE GO TO NEW YORK TO BUY RING

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Wilson and his fiancee, Mrs. Norman Galt, smiling and apparently the happiest two people in the world, left here at 10:04 this morning for New York. With them in the President's private car were Mrs. Bolling, mother of Mrs. Galt; Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, niece of President Wilson; Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the President's physician, and Secretary Joseph P. Tumulty.

Only a small crowd saw the President and his fiance at the Union station. The hour of their departure had been kept secret and it was believed that fact forestalled the gathering of a large crowd. The President was the first to arrive at the station. He came in a White House automobile with Miss Bones.

Smiling, he escorted his niece to the Presidential room at the station. Hardly a minute elapsed when Mrs. Galt, with her mother and Dr. Grayson, arrived in an electric brougham. They went at once to the Presidential room and the party remained in there for a few minutes chatting.

When the party left the room to walk to the train a line of police was quickly formed through the rotunda. Immediately the crowd at the station flocked to the platform and, as the President passed along, there was much handclapping. The President escorted Mrs. Bolling, and, following, came Mrs. Galt and Miss Bones, with Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Grayson in the rear. The President smiled and repeatedly tipped his hat as the crowd applauded.

Mrs. Galt, with heightened color, smiled and held close to Miss Bones as she walked along to the train.

VISIT NEW YORK STORES.

The President wore his usual traveling suit of gray with a light overcoat and crushed fedora hat. Mrs. Galt was charmingly dressed in a black satin traveling suit.

This afternoon the ring that seals their engagement of marriage will be purchased in one of the New York stores, and tonight the engagement will be celebrated at the home of Colonel E. M. House, who gives a small party in honor of the happy announcement.

Unusual preparations have been made at the home of Colonel House to receive the President and his fiancee when they arrive there tonight. Mrs. House, who will be hostess to the engaged couple, was busily engaged today, supervising the placing of floral and other pretty decorations which were sent to the apartment during the day.

The House home is an eight-room apartment on the ninth floor of the apartment house at No. 115 East Fifty-Third street. Although the biggest apartment in the house, it was decided that it was not commodious enough to entertain the President and Mrs. Galt overnight. Therefore, the coming "White House bride" will remain overnight at one of the hotels or with friends.

The President and Mrs. Galt will go to Colonel House's home for luncheon and later in the afternoon will visit one of the Fifth avenue jewelry shops and select the engagement ring. They will return to the Fifty-Third street house for the dinner and reception and in the evening may go to a theatre.

Tomorrow morning the couple will return to Washington, stopping off at Philadelphia if the weather permits, to take in the World's Series baseball game.

A flood of congratulations has kept the members of the Galt household very busy, while at the White House the wires and staff of clerks were taxed with such messages, which came from every quarter of the globe in countless numbers.

Mrs. Galt answered many of the calls of personal friends, saying over and over again in response to their good wishes, "I am very happy." And when they asked if the wedding date had been fixed her reply each time was: "No, nothing has been arranged yet."

OXFORD WOMAN HAS HAZY IDEA OF TAXI RIDE

WORCESTER, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Ruth Bonney, the young woman who was brought to the City Hospital from Southbridge after she had been found, half-conscious, has so far recovered that she is soon to leave the hospital.

She has told the police her story, but her recollection of what happened to her is hazy. Her story is as follows:

"I came to Worcester from Danielson, Ct., and had been here for only a few days. I think I would be able to find the place where my room was but I can't think of the street and number.

"I was looking for work and Tuesday night I felt despondent and started out for a walk on the streets. I can't seem to remember very much of anything that happened after that. I can remember something about being in the taxicab and something about some strange man, but I can't seem to think what he looked like or very much else about him. All is clouded after that.

"I don't know as I could swear when I met the man or where it was, and sometimes it seems almost as if there wasn't any man at all. But I can faintly remember being with him. I don't know how I could have got into the taxicab.

"I used to live in Oxford, but moved away from there several years ago. I have a sister there who is named Mrs. Credit."

Falls to Death Off Train.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 8.—An unidentified man was killed here early today by falling from a west-bound passenger train on which he is thought to have been riding "blind baggage."

Killed on Elevator.

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 8.—John Bonowski, twenty-eight, was crushed to death today by a freight elevator at the plant of the Hendee Manufacturing Company.

BIRD HOTLY ATTACKS WILSON IN COMING OUT FOR M'CALL

In an open letter to Leon Baldwin, acting chairman of the Progressive State Committee, Charles Sumner Bird writes:

"The Republican platform, as I read it, is a step forward. It makes a substantial recognition of needful, progressive legislation, and above all, it shows a change of spirit.

"The declaration in favor of a constitutional convention, the delegates to be elected without party designation, in other words a non-partisan and honest convention, is a remarkable achievement.

"The declaration for an executive budget, biennial elections and a short ballot, is also a great step in advance. With a short ballot we can concentrate responsibility and power in the hands of the Governor and thus secure economic and social reforms that, under our present cumbersome system, is impossible. These are Progressive measures that I advocated in my campaigns and that I believe to be essential in order to effect further social and governmental reforms.

The Initiative and Referendum, a much needed and fundamental reform, is more likely to be acted upon favorably by the people through a constitutional convention than it is to be obtained through legislative action.

"The Republican party, for the first time in its history, pledges itself to carry out these reforms and upon these pledges in plain, unequivocal language, Mr. McCall will go before the people. It is well known that he personally favors woman suffrage.

FOR SOCIAL WELFARE LAWS.

"Now as to social welfare. During the past three years I have fought for the humanitarian planks of the National Progressive platform and I stand today squarely on those planks. It is fair, however, to say, as I have repeatedly said, that in social welfare legislation Massachusetts is ahead of most of her sister States.

"Every Progressive in casting a vote this year should consider what effect his vote will have in the fight between the Democratic and the Anti-Democratic forces in 1916. In this connection let us look at the Democratic platform, which in speaking of President Wilson contains the following: 'We believe his masterly handling of both national and international relations demand his renomination as the trusted leader of the National Democracy in 1916.'

"That makes the Democratic National Administration the main issue in this campaign. The Democratic party cannot dodge it. The fight must centre around the National Administration. Governor Walsh must shoulder it. Every voter will be called upon to decide whether the country can stand four years more of Wilson, Daniels and the Southern Democracy. State questions, important though they may be, are submerged by bigger questions of national prosperity and national safety.

DECRIES WILSON POLICIES.

"Four years more of Democratic misrule! Where would the business of the country be in 1920? Have the businessmen, workmen, workwomen, merchants, small and large, forgotten the condition that business was in twelve months after President Wilson's inauguration and before the great European war began? Have the workmen of Massachusetts, and New England, forgotten the idle shops, the large list of unemployed and the cheerless homes that followed the Democratic attack upon the tariff and upon business? It is true that business today, is somewhat better, but every intelligent observer, whose opinion is worth while, knows that without war orders business would not be 25 per cent. of normal, and that without the importation of millions of trade in powder and shells, the country would be facing the most awful industrial depression that we have ever had.

"When President Wilson was elected the United States was respected by most of the nations of the world. Today we are disgusted and despised by practically all of the nations of the world. We have been tottering on the edge of a war with Mexico for two years, without the courage to fight, or without the courage to withdraw. No American citizen, with one drop of red blood in his veins, can view our course in Mexico where murder, rapine and arson have devastated that beautiful country, without a deep feeling of shame and humiliation. In our pursuit of wealth we have laughed at honor. We have fattened in the making of implements of war while American citizens, men, women and children, have been murdered in Mexico. Have Farragut, John Paul Jones, Washington, Lincoln, Grant, and Lee lived in vain?

U. S. A DIVIDED NATION.

"In neglecting to protest against the violation of Belgium soil, we evaded a solemn duty and are, in part, responsible for the desolation and ruin of that courageous and valiant people, but above all, the lack of any definite, vigorous and well defined policy in our international relations across the sea, has brought about a dangerous division of feeling among our own people. We are, today, a divided nation, lacking national unity and patriotic sentiment. We would have been one people, united in purpose and in voice if, at the outset, we had had at the head of our State Department Olney, Hay or Root, backed by a President with a firm, consistent, national policy toward the warring nations of the world.

"I am going to support Mr. McCall in this election. This does not mean that I shall now join the Republican party. It does not mean that I shall support that party in this election, in what I believe to be an honest attempt on its part to bring about cooperation with the progressives of the State along liberal lines. I am still a member of the National Progressive Party, and shall continue such until the line-up of 1916 determines the course of that party.

"Finally, I would like to say that I do not doubt the honesty and sincerity of the Progressives who may refuse to follow me in this campaign. For three years we have fought together and the parting now, temporary though it may be, is only justified on the ground that we are not going along lines that each one believes to be for the best interests of the Commonwealth."

COFFEE A NARCOTIC AND DOPE WITH OPIUM

Well known medical writer declares coffee, like opium, holds victims in pitiless grasp.

"I would like to make everyone thoroughly understand that coffee is a narcotic—a very strong narcotic, too," says Dr. S. S. Carr in a communication to the Ohio State Journal. "There is no drug in the pharmacopeia that has a more powerful effect upon the brain centres than coffee. Coffee is a dope and narcotic almost equal to opium. To be sure, it does not produce at once the mental disaster that opium does. Slowly but surely coffee gets control of its victim and enslaves him in its gross, pitiful, helpless victimage.

NOTE.—The food-drink, Instant Postum, while much resembling the higher grades of Java coffee in flavor and appearance, is absolutely free from the coffee drugs, caffine and tannin, or any other harmful ingredient. Pure, wholesome, harmless, convenient, economical, this delicious hot beverage is rapidly taking the place of coffee in homes where health is a prime desideratum.

ALLIES READY TO SHELL BULGAR PORTS

Dedeagadch as a result of reports that part of the allied troops taken to Saloniki will attempt to capture the Bulgar seaport. The entire railway line between Mustapha Pasha and Dedeagadch, part of which runs through Turkish territory, is now being operated by the Bulgarian military establishment.

BULGARS INVADE MACEDONIAN SERBIA, LONDON REPORTS

By PERCY THOMAS.

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—With the great Austro-German offensive to crush Serbia finally under way, Bulgaria is now reported to have struck her first blow in behalf of the Teutonic allies.

In addition to the German and Austro-Hungarian troops, variously estimated at from 400,000 to 1,000,000 men, driving against the Serbs' positions on the Danube, Drina and Save River fronts, a Bulgarian army has crossed the frontier into Serbian Macedonia, according to advices from Rome.

A squadron of Anglo-French warships, drawn from the Dardanelles fleet, is standing off Dedeagadch and is preparing to bombard the Bulgarian fortress, according to advices from Saloniea. Dedeagadch is Bulgaria's only port on the Aegean Sea.

Nish, the Serb capital, has been bombarded from the air. An aeroplane, which flew from Bulgaria, dropped shells upon the Saloniea-Nish railroad and upon the Serbian capital, killing five persons and wounding two others. It returned to Bulgarian soil undamaged.

Varna, the chief Bulgarian port on the Black Sea, is being bombarded by Russian warships, it is reported by the Cologne Gazette.

RUSSIA PROMISES AID.

Petrograd reports that a Russian army will be sent into the Balkans to help Serbia, but it is difficult at this time to see how the troops will get through. If a Russian army is sent from Bessarabia, it would have to cross Roumanian soil. If it is sent from Odessa, where a 30aecovite force of 500,000 men is reported to have been concentrated, it would have to fight its way across Bulgarian territory or Turkish Thrace, and even before it could do this Russian warships would have to clear the way for a landing.

The main objective of the Teutonic drive in Nish, and Nish is also the objective of the Anglo-French forces which have been landed at Saloniea.

Furious artillery duels are raging all along the northern and northwestern boundaries of Serbia, where German and Austrian guns are pitted against those of the Serbs. The Austro-German forces are expected to make a vigorous attempt to occupy Belgrade, not for its military and strategic value, for it has very little, but for the political effect.

BELGRADE BOMBARDED.

Belgrade is now under bombardment, but the British naval guns which were taken there by Admiral Ernest Troubridge, former commander of the English Mediterranean fleet, are replying effectively.

The gathering of troops of so many different nationalities in the Balkan theatre of war give it an unusual distinction that no other sphere of hostilities has enjoyed. If the plans of the opposing general staffs are carried out an army composed of British, French, Russian, Serbian, Montenegrin and perhaps Italian troops will be opposed to an army made up of German, Austrian, Hungarian, Bulgarian and Turkish soldiers.

The absence of Field Marshal von Mackensen's name from recent reports of the German War Office lends confirmation to the reports that he will be in command of the Teutonic armies which are assigned to the crushing of Serbia.

GREECE TO BE NEUTRAL.

Dispatches from Athens say that Premier Zaimis and his neutrality cabinet have decided that the terms of the Serb-Greek alliance do not require the intervention of Greece in the war to defend Serbia. This decision, completely indorsing the position taken by King Constantine, was reached at an all-night session of the ministry which adjourned early today after drawing up a program which will be presented to the chamber of deputies on Monday.

Before seeking any rest the new Premier went to the royal palace and laid before Constantine the new cabinet's policy, who seems to have approved of it in full.

The Zaimis program maintains that Greece must be absolutely neutral, but at the same time must keep its military forces in a state of preparedness.

WHY BULGARIA IS ON SIDE OF KAISER

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (by wireless via Sayville, N. Y.).—Bulgaria has announced that she will fight on the side of Germany and Austria, according to a dispatch from Sofia, given out by the Overseas News Agency today.

In announcing her intention, Bulgaria gave out to her population the following manifesto, says the dispatch:

"The Central Empires have promised us parts of Serbia, creating a frontier with Hungary which is absolutely necessary if we are to be independent of the Serbians, who have grown mad with power.

"We do not believe the Quadruple Entente's promises.

"Italy, which is one of the allies, broke a treaty of thirty-years' duration.

"We believe in Germany, which is fighting the entire world, in order to fulfill her treaty of alliance with Austria.

"Bulgaria must fight at the side of the victors. The Germans and Austro-Hungarians are victorious on all fronts.

"Russia will soon have collapsed entirely, and then come in turn France, Italy and Serbia.

"Bulgaria would commit suicide by not fighting on the side of the Central Powers, and this is our only possibility if we are to realize our union of all of the Bulgarian peoples."

BERLIN PLANS TO CRUSH SERBIA AND END WAR

By the International News Service.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Oct. 8.—German military experts declared today that with the Austro-German invasion of Serbia, the war enters its final phase. Plans have been carefully laid for a rapid advance through Serbia, and with an Austro-German and Bulgar army upon the peninsula of Gallipoli, a Turkish army of immense proportions will be released for operations against Egypt.

The material and political effect of a great Teutonic victory in the Balkans would have far-reaching consequences. Not only would the military power of the Teutonic allies be more equally distributed, but Russia's hopes of obtaining relief from England and France through the Dardanelles would practically be shattered.

It is believed that with the capture of Dvinsk by the German and the consequent fall of Riga the active campaign of the Teutonic allies in the eastern theatre will come to a standstill. Meanwhile they will continue to hold the allies upon the western front without any attempts at an offensive there which would cost more in human life than the effort would be worth.

While the new Teutonic campaign in the Balkans naturally is a drain upon their strength in other arenas, it likewise compels the allies to withdraw troops from their fronts. But the drain upon the Teutonic strength is more than made up by the entrance of Bulgaria in the war on the side of Germany, Austria and Turkey. On the other hand there are no indications at this time that Roumania and Greece will abandon their neutrality.

Throughout the war the Austro-Hungarian government has felt that the crushing of Serbia was one of its strongest obligations, in view of the fact that the Serbs are held responsible for starting the war.

EXPECT BRITAIN WILL GIVE WAY TO U. S.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The State Department has cabled Ambassador Page at London to insist to Great Britain that importers of the United States are entitled to the release of goods of Austro-Germany origin which were contracted for between March 1 and March 15.

Great Britain originally contended under the order-in-council that all goods of enemy origin could be legally held, but conceded later that she would release all goods which importers could show were contracted for up to March 1, when the blockade of neutral ports went into effect.

The State Department, it appears, has suddenly discovered that it received no notice of the order-in-council until March 15 and that therefore its regulations could only be enforced from that date.

Officials predict that Great Britain will yield this point as a "concession," although they say the United States is entitled to it as a matter of right.

Secretary of State Lansing has taken up the statement and protest of the packers, in which they point out that the United States should demand the immediate release of their cargoes not yet confiscated and payment for all cargoes Great Britain has already appropriated.

Prussic Acid May Be Basis of New German War Gas

PARIS, Oct. 8.—According to the written statements of three men who fought respectively at Souain, Suippes and Moranvillers, they were surrounded for a few seconds by clouds of deep green gas of a rather pleasant odor. These men asserted that soldiers who were no masks were suffocated, while those with masks lose consciousness for varying periods.

Upon regaining consciousness at field dressing stations, they said, they suffered convulsive seizures resembling epileptic fits. Upon their arrival at the Paris hospital they were found to have an extremely weak pulse and to be suffering from general prostration, but showed none of the symptoms hitherto associated with gas poison. It is believed here that prussic acid is used as the basis of the new gas.

Blaze on Canadian Liner in Mersey

By International News Service.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 8.—Fire again broke out on board the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain early today and special apparatus was taken to the government docks on the Mersey to fight the flames. Last night's fire was extinguished after several hours' work. It was announced today that neither fire had caused serious damage, but the departure of the liner on government service will be delayed for some time.

FIERCE BATTLE CONTINUES IN CHAMPAGNE

By C. F. BERTELLI,

Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Violent fighting is still in progress in Champagne, where the French troops are attempting to drive the Germans from the communicating trenches which they still hold southeast of Tahure, and consolidate all the gains taken in the attack upon the Kaiser's forces at this point.

The Germans are fiercely resisting French attacks and today's communique from the War Office states that the enemy's artillery is violently bombarding French positions along two important roads.

The text of the communique follows:

"To the north of Arras the cannonade was kept up by both sides during the night in the direction of Souchez and its environs, as well as in the sector of Hill No. 140, at La Folie. There was rather great activity by the enemy's artillery, likewise with replies from our guns, in the region of Roye, to the north of the Aleue, toward Tracey-Le-Val and at St. Mard forest.

"In the Champagne the Germans violently bombarded our positions between the roads from St. Hilaire to St. Souplet, and from Souaine to Somme-Py. Our batteries responded very energetically everywhere.

"A sharp battle is going on in the communicating trenches to the southeast of Tahure, toward the Butte of Mesnil.

"Between the Argonne and the Meuse one of our mines blew up sapping works of the enemy in the forest of Malancourt.

"The night was relatively calm on the rest of the front."

MORSE-MADE CLOTHES

"If It's at Morse's, It's Correct; If It's Correct, It's at Morse's."

MOST men seem to have the idea that only one garment can be really and finally right—the "custom" made.

But most men do not seem to realize that the garment produced by a highly specialized garment-making institution is fully as good or often better at a substantially lower price.

Our showing of Morse-made Suits and Overcoats for Fall and Winter, 1915-16, acknowledges no superior in any store in the country. Cabinet after cabinet is filled with individual garments, cut from the same fabrics your custom tailor would show you, shaped, sewn and finished throughout by more skilful hands than he could afford to employ, and moulded on models laid down by a designer whose skill and garment-knowledge no custom tailor can surpass.

Fabrics thoroughly tested by experts as to strength, color, weight and perfection of weave are built into all Morse-Made clothes at $15, $20, $25, $30, $35 and $40

That is why every Morse-made garment bears an absolute guarantee of satisfaction.

The "Refinement"

—a Morse model that is taken far and wide as the standard of correct conservatism. Hand tailored throughout in attractive high grade fabrics and backed by a reliable guarantee.

ART STUDENT TO WED MAINE LAWYER, 54

The engagement just announced of Miss Hazel Irene Fletcher of Cambridge, a student at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts School, to Harvey Paine Eaton, a prominent Maine lawyer, is attracting much attention among their friends.

Mr. Eaton first met Miss Fletcher in Waterville, Me., which is the native city of both, and where Miss Fletcher's mother, Mrs. W. I. Fletcher, lives at No. 224 Main street.

Mr. Eaton is fifty-four. He has been married once before and one of his sons is several years the senior of his future step-mother. Mr. Eaton is an official of several railroads, water companies and banks and is reputed to be wealthy.

Since coming to Boston to study Miss Fletcher has been prominent in Boston and Cambridge society. Besides being interested in art Miss Fletcher is very musical and is a talented vocalist.

MISS HAZEL IRENE FLETCHER, student at Museum of Fine Arts School, who is to wed a Maine attorney.

30 Naval Prisoners Go Free Next Month

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 8.—During the month of October the government will release nearly fifty men from the United States naval prison here and restore them to active duty in the service. This will be a record discharge in the history of the prison. The order to release them comes from Secretary Daniels.

Newton Man Alumni Trustee.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 8.—Edward Kimball Hall, '92, of Newtonville, Mass., has been nominated by the alumni of Dartmouth College to complete the term of Lewis Parkhurst, '74, of Winchester, Mass., as alumni trustee.

SOCIETY GIRLS AID FESTIVAL FOR ALLIES

Arrangements for the Harvest Festival and Barbecue at the Storrow Farm, Lincoln, in aid of the National Allied Relief Fund, which takes place tomorrow, are being rapidly completed. Many of the season's debutantes will assist.

Mrs. John L. Gardner, with Messrs. Harry Sleeper and Hervey Wetzel, is in charge of the decorations and general arrangements of exhibits.

Charles B. Perkins is general cashier and treasurer. Barrett Wendell, Jr., will preside over the tennis courts; Mrs. Charles Perkins over croquet; Miss Grace Monks, bowling; Mrs. Frentz, archery; Mrs. R. W. Lovett, indoor bridge tournament; Miss Vera Rubinowitz, Russian table and tea; Mrs. Arthur T. Cabot, farm product; Mrs. J. W. Farley and Miss Edith Banks, flowers, and Miss Martha Thorndike, candy.

Miss Lily Roberts will distribute pine cones and popcorn balls. Mrs. Fiske Warren will have charge of the books and posters. Mr. Robert Jonckeers, a Belgian refugee, will sell Belgian candy.

Mrs. Anna Field is in charge of the exhibit of prison-made articles from Sing Sing, and Miss Lily Roberts of the dancing.

An orchestra will play during the clambake and barbecue. Dr. Edward H. Nichols will speak on the Harvard Unit in France, and Mrs. Robert Grant will read war letters.

Motion pictures of the festival will be taken and views of Sing Sing Prison will be shown after the barbecue.

Ample parking, policing and checking facilities for automobile parties are in preparation under charge of Harry C. Upham. Unlimited parking space will be furnished on the farm, and wraps, rugs and similar articles checked in a convenient tent.

Guests on entering the grounds will be given checks in exchange for their tickets, these checks being of distinctive colors according to whether they cover admission to the clambake, festival or barbecue, or all three.

Motor buses will leave Copley square and make the round trip to Storrow Farm throughout the day and into the evening. Many parties are arranging for special buses. Jitneys and buses will meet the trains at Lincoln, and will run from the Waltham car line Waltham to Lincoln.

Shaw Predicts McCall's Defeat

William Shaw, Prohibition candidate for Governor, declared in two campaign addresses in this city that his opponents for the Governorship were balancing a beer glass on one shoulder and a communion cup on the other, without spilling a drop of either; that they were acrobats as well as politicians. He asserted his belief that Samuel W. McCall was already defeated and that the Republicans who love their party and want to see it redeemed would vote for Shaw and prohibition.

WOMAN DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM BATH

woman was found, notified Night Clerk Curry that water was leaking into his room.

Engineer Patrick J. Reynolds and Hellman John J. Frazier were sent to Mrs. Crowninshield's room to investigate the cause. When they reached the room steam was pouring through an open transom and water was coming from beneath the door.

Their knocks on the door were unanswered. Finally Reynolds assisted Frazier through a transom. The body of the woman was lying in the bath tub. The hot water had been left running full force and the tub was overflowing.

Frazier opened the door and admitted Reynolds. They turned off the water and saw that life was extinct. The body had been badly scalded.

Through Miss Marion Steele, the hotel telephone operator, Lieutenant Ragan at police headquarters was notified. Patrolmen Joseph Holleran and Samuel Kinnear of the Court Square Station were dispatched to the hotel to guard the body and the room until the medical examiner arrived. Dr. Magrath happened to come to headquarters a short time after the message was received and immediately went to the hotel.

Dr. Magrath, who is a personal friend of the dead woman's husband, immediately communicated with him over the telephone at his home, "The Anchorage," at Peach's Point, Marblehead.

"I believe the death of my wife was accidental," declared Mr. Crowninshield, in talking with a Boston AMERICAN reporter over the telephone from his Marblehead home at 6 o'clock today.

"Mrs. Crowninshield was not ill. She had no mental trouble and, therefore, had no cause to worry. I was notified about 4 o'clock by Medical Examiner Magrath of my wife's death. He informed me that it was his opinion that Mrs. Crowninshield's death was accidental.

"I am coming to Boston on the first train today to claim the body and will meet Dr. Magrath at his office."

DESIGNED LAWSON BOAT.

Before her marriage to Mr. Crowninshield in May, 1901, Mrs. Crowninshield was Miss Priscilla Janet MacPhail. Her husband is a graduate of Harvard, 1896, and has gained nationwide fame as a naval designer and architect. He designed Thomas W. Lawson's yacht "Independence," and the largest sailing vessel, the seven masted schooner "Thomas W. Lawson." He is a member of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers and of the Eastern and Boston Yacht Clubs.

In 1911, he gained considerable prominence through a suit for $10,000, brought against him by the late Adolphus G. McVey, a Boston yachting editor and court officer, who claimed that he had been assaulted.

At the trial, Mr. Crowninshield admitted that he had assaulted McVey, but only after his wife had been grossly insulted.

He stated that his wife and some friends had stopped alongside the wharf at Manchester-by-the-Sea, in their launch. As it was low tide, they were about eight feet below the wharf.

He testified that McVey was on the wharf and that he remarked to his wife, "See who's up there." He claimed that his wife replied, "He ought to be thrown overboard." McVey is said to have retorted, "You should have thrown her overboard before you married her." These remarks, Crowninshield said, excited him so that he jumped on the wharf and hit McVey.

At the time of this trial, the naval architect related how his family thought that he had married one not of his class and had refused to recognize his wife. Scandalous reports, involving his wife, he added, had been published.

CROWNINSHIELD'S WIFE FOUND DEAD IN BOSTON HOTEL

Mrs. Bowdoin B. Crowninshield, wife of the noted yacht designer, whose death in a Boston hotel has created a mystery.

Husband believes her death was accidental, as she had not been ill or had no cause to worry over financial or family matters.

WOMAN CHOKED TO DEATH IN HOTEL

Miss Margaret Sullivan, thirty-four, of Lynn, is supposed to be the young woman found dead in a room in the St. James Hotel, Bowdoin square, West End, according to Mrs. Belle Doherty, who viewed the body early today at the North Grove Street Morgue.

Mrs. Doherty went to the morgue with Patrolman Fay of the Joy Street Station at 12:20 a. m., and looked at the body, which was numbered "7254."

She told the policeman and the morgue caretaker that Miss Sullivan was employed in Bishop's laundry, Lynn.

The young woman went to the hotel in company with a man. The latter registered at 1:05 yesterday morning, and was assigned to room 68 on the third floor. Written in rather a shaky hand, the words "J. Brown and wife, Malden," appeared on the register opposite the number of the room.

They were shown to their room. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning the man left the hotel alone. He left the door of room 68 open, and about 1 o'clock one of the chambermaids looked in and saw the woman lying partially dressed face downwards on the bed, apparently fast asleep.

It was not until 2 o'clock in the afternoon that the chambermaid suspected the woman was dead, and it was some hours later before the fact that it was probably a homicide developed.

Edwin B. Tobin, the night clerk, was at the desk when the couple came in. He noted that the woman was rather good looking and nicely dressed. She appeared to be about twenty-five years old, with chestnut hair and gray eyes. She had a round, full face.

The man with her advanced to the desk and asked for a room, and Tobin turned the register towards the man. The man's hand was shaky, and the pen failed to work well on the "J." Before starting the name "Brown" the man moved his hand up half a line.

Then writing erratically, and in very small letters, he wrote "Brown & wife," ending with a scrawled "Malden." Then he paid for the room, and, accompanied by the woman, walked to the elevator.

Albert Snyder, the elevator boy, a bartender, a porter and one of the other guests rode up in the elevator with the young woman and the man. Questioned later, all were sure that neither the man nor the woman appeared to have been drinking. Tobin and other employes of the hotel could not recall ever having seen either one of the couple before.

From the time they entered room 68 until 8 o'clock in the morning nothing further was heard of the couple. A night watchman passed the door of their room every hour, but heard no sounds from within. Tobin, the clerk, too, made a couple of trips through the hotel, but heard no sound as he passed the door of the room.

About 8 o'clock Tobin was seated inside the desk in the office, reading a morning paper. He heard the front door open and got up to see who was coming in. By the time he got in sight of the door it had closed again, but through the window, walking in the direction of Scollay square was a man whom Tobin recognized as the person who had registered as "J. Brown."

Mrs. Ruhlin Charges Woman with Theft

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Sarah Ruhlin, widow of Young Ruhlin, the heavyweight pugilist, was complainant against Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman, a suffrage worker of Brooklyn, charging the latter with the theft of a $225 diamond earring. Mrs. Sherman was held in $1,000 bail by Magistrate Crimmar. Mrs. Ruhlin testified she attended a suffrage meeting at the Sherman home in March, 1913, and left her coat in a closet there during the evening. On returning home she found the earring had vanished from the coat. William G. Sherman, the defendant's husband, caused her arrest by notifying Mrs. Ruhlin that his wife had had the gem set into a ring.

Ask Guardian for Dryden's Widow

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Through the filing of an application of the New Jersey Chancery Court for a temporary guardian for Mrs. Cynthia Dryden, widow of John F. Dryden, founder of the Prudential Insurance Company of Newark, it became known that Mrs. Dryden has been in a state of mental incapacity for more than three months.

The application for a guardian is made for the purpose of disposing of a large tract of land in Sussex County, New Jersey, which was owned by Dryden.

FORBES TELLS OF PLANS FOR GIGANTIC STEEL MERGERS

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Prospective expenditure of hundreds of millions by the United States government for preparedness is mainly responsible for the two important steel mergers now being carried through by Charles M. Schwab and W. E. Corey.

I learn on inside authority that the Rockefellers and National City Bank interests are the leading financial powers behind Corey and that their plans do not stop at the point already reached.

An issue of probably $70,000,000 Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company stock will be announced in the immediate future, $30,000,000 to $100,000,000 authorized being reserved for future expansion.

The Rockefellers in the past have been closely identified with the United States Steel Corporation. Hence their action in vigorously supporting and financing a new steel combination must be regarded as peculiarly significant.

ROCKEFELLER BACKING.

The real power behind Corey in his absorption of the Midvale Steel, Worth Bros., Coatesville Rolling Mill and Remington Arms Companies is not Converse, but the Rockefellers, represented in the new Golding Company's Board by Percy A. Rockefeller and the National City Bank represented by President Frank A. Vanderlip. Mr. Converse has supplied only a relatively small amount of the necessary capital and will not take any active part in the management of the enterprise.

In high financial circles, the new lineup is looked upon as constituting a formidable rival to the J. P. Morgan & Co. interests in the United States Steel Corporation. A director of the new company, pressed to explain the real situation, said: "We have got the very strongest financial resources. We have the right men behind it. We have very able men to run it. We have acquired excellent properties. And we have got them at the right price."

"Are you negotiating for other plants?"

"Mr. Corey's published statement covers the situation to date."

U. S. DEFENCE PLANS.

"Later you may buy other properties?"

"Probably. It is going to be a big thing. It will be well rounded out."

"You are not going to amalgamate with Schwab after he completes his property purchases, are you?"

"No, we are not working with Schwab. But we won't cut each other's throats. There will be business enough for both."

"Will much in European war orders?"

"No, not only European war orders. Is not this country determined to put itself in a proper state of defence? Look ahead a little."

The impression clearly conveyed was that there will be no excited scramble for other properties at inflated prices, but that additional purchases are contemplated from time to time. The new Midvale $50 shares on "when issued" basis were 66 bid on the curb market yesterday. Lively trading in them is looked for by Wall street. By fixing the par value at $50, it is figured there will be a better and more active market for the stock, as the public dislikes to pay high prices for shares that sell at very high quotations.

SCHWAB RETICENT.

The Philadelphia yarn that the British government is backing the movement is extremely far fetched.

Just how ambitious are the plans of Charles M. Schwab cannot be stated definitely or authoritatively. That he is negotiating to take over from the Pennsylvania Railroad some of its control of the Cambria Steel and Pennsylvania Steel Company has already been announced.

It is reported by those who profess to know that Schwab has acquired an important interest in Baldwin Locomotive shares recently.

Mr. Schwab has been rigidly reticent, and I don't profess to know his intentions. All sorts of rumors are afloat concerning his determination to form a second steel trust fit to hold its own with the billion-dollar corporation. I was told today, and I give it with reserve, that he does mean to evolve a strong, all-round enterprise, capable not only of turning out munitions, but all other kinds of steel products in demand in times of peace, and that he is negotiating to become a dominating power in the building of all classes of sea-going craft, naval and mercantile. It should be possible to give more specific information about Mr. Schwab's plans in the near future.

Swedish Iron Held Up.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 8.—Iron ore shipping is completely tied up, owing to rumors that a British submarine has mined the waterways in the Baltic between Trelleborg, Sweden and Saassnitz, Germany.

EXPERT ORANGE PACKERS TO BE AT KEITH'S

The champion orange packers of California, the Misses Louise Lowe and Ethel Dale and Roy Adams and Orville Rogers, are to give an exhibition of their wonderful skill in sorting, washing, wrapping and crating oranges at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week.

The Orange Growers' Association of California annually holds a packing contest and awards prizes to the most rapid and efficient orange packers.

For five consecutive years the first prize has been won by the Misses Lowe and Dale and the Messrs. Rogers and Adams.

After winning five times in succession, they are disqualified from further participation in these contests. They were engaged to appear at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in connection with the California Orange Growers' Association exhibit, one of the largest and most interesting in the Agricultural Palace, where they were discovered by one of the agents of the B. F. Keith circuit and brought to New York.

The orange packing industry is probably Southern California's principal occupation. One travels for miles and miles through orange groves, and the trip from Redlands to Riverside by rail is made without for a single instant passing from the shade of orange trees.

At the time of the year before trees are in fruit, but are in bloom, the perfume from the blossoms is almost stifling. Orange growing has created another industry, orange packing.

The quartette at Keith's next week are the most dexterous in packing, one of the men making three oranges crates at the same time.

Naughty Men Hold Ground at Fashion Show

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"If there are any men present who feel that it would embarrass them to witness the intimacy of the boudoir, they had better leave now," said Mrs. Belle Armstrong Whitney at the Fashion Show yesterday afternoon at the Park Square Theatre.

Was there a man afraid?

Was there a man dismayed?

No! They stuck faster than the soldiers in the trenches. All through the mysteries of nightlies, negligees, hosiery, corsetry and chemises, the brave fellows held their ground, and their breath.

It really is quite a daring show, the boudoir scene. Formerly they used to refuse admission to men at dressmakers' exhibitions where lingerie was displayed, but no man with the price of a ticket will be turned away from the Park Square.

Mrs. Whitney's Fashion Show is in three acts. The first shows street dresses and hats. The second the boudoir necessities, and the third evening gowns. There are twenty beautiful models, and they must display hundreds of wonderful costumes, as they are continually changing. Mrs. Whitney is assisted by two attractive stage settings, but there is no attempt at entertainment barring a dance and a song, which are introduced to give her a chance to show her voice.

Mrs. Whitney talks very well, and a male person can actually understand her descriptions of the costumes even if he isn't very greatly interested. The women thoroughly enjoy themselves. They applaud gowns that they like just as though it were a dramatic or musical achievement to wear a nice costume.

Two hours and a half is a long time to look at dressmakers' models, even as pretty as these, but no woman departed before the last evening gown had been shown. And, by the way, the evening gowns they are wearing this year make the boudoir negligees look like Quaker clothes.

A SPOONFUL OF SALTS RELIEVES ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, says noted authority.

If back hurts or Bladder bothers, stop all meat for a while.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and jaggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advt.

CALLED BACK

A thrilling mystery novel—A masterpiece of fiction which made the author world famous complete in four installments by HUGH CONWAY

CHAPTER I.

In Darkness and in Danger

I have a reason for writing this tale, or it would not become public property.

I am not very young, nor am I alone. There is one who is dearer to me than life itself. One from whose heart, I am glad to say, every shadow left by the past is rapidly fading—one who only wishes to live her true sweet life without mystery or concealment — wishes to be thought neither better nor worse than she really is. It is she who shrinks from the strange and absurd reports which are flying about as to our antecedents—she who is vexed by those leading questions sometimes asked by inquisitive friends; and it is for her sake that I look up old journals, call back old memories of joy and grief, and tell every one, who cares to read, all he can possibly wish to know, and it may be, more than he has a right to know, of our lives.

To begin, I must go back more years than I care to enumerate; although I could, if necessary, fix the day and the year. I was young, just past twenty-five. I was rich, having when I came of age succeeded to an income of about two thousand a year; an income which, being drawn from the funds, I was able to enjoy without responsibilities or anxiety as to its stability and endurance. Although since my twenty-first birthday I had been my own master, I had no extravagant follies to weigh me down, no debts to hamper me. I was without bodily ache or pain; yet I turned again and again on my pillow and said that my life for the future would be little more than a curse to me.

Fancy the Thought of Fifty Long Years of Blindness.

For, even as Samson, I was blind!

Blind! Who but the victim can even faintly comprehend the significance of that word? Who can read this and gauge the depth of my anguish as I turned and turned on my pillow and thought of the fifty years of darkness which might be mine—a thought which made me wish that when I fell asleep it might be to wake no more?

My best friend of all was a humble one: Priscilla Drew, an old and trusted servant of my mother's. She had known me from earliest childhood. When I returned to England I could not bear the thought of trusting my helpless self entirely to a stranger's care, so I write to her and begged her to come to me. I could at least groan and lament before her without feeling shame. She came, wept over me for a while, and then, like a sensible woman, hestirred herself to do all she could to mitigate the hardships of my lot. She found comfortable lodgings, installed her troublesome charge therein, and day and night was ever at his beck and call. Even now, as I lay awake and tossing in mental anguish, she was sleeping on an extemporized bed just outside the folding doors, which opened from my bedroom to the sitting-room.

It was a stifling night in August. The sluggish air which crept in through the open window made little perceptible difference in the temperature of my room. Everything seemed still, hot and dark. The only sound I could hear was the regular breathing of the sleeper behind the door, which she had left an inch or two ajar in order that she might catch my faintest call.

Presently a fierce longing to be out of doors came over me. It was night—very few people would be about. There was a broad pavement in front of the row of houses in one of which I lodged. Up and down this I might walk in perfect safety.

I crept softly from by bed, and slowly, but easily dressed myself, hearing all the while the sleeper's regular breathing. Then, cautious as a thief, I stole to the door which led from my bedroom to the landing. I opened it without noise and stood on the thick carpet outside, smiling as I thought of the sleeper's dismay if she awoke and discovered my absence. I closed the door, then, guiding myself by the balustrade, passed lightly down the stairs and reached the street door without accident.

There were other lodgers in the house, among them young men who came in at all hours, so, the door being always left on the latch, I had no bolts to contend with. In a moment I was on the doorstep, with the door behind me closed.

CHAPTER II.

Blind and Lost.

I STOOD for a short time irresolute, almost trembling at my temerity.

This was the first time I had ventured beyond the house without a guiding hand to trust to. Yet I knew there was nothing to fear. The street—a quiet one—was deserted. The pavement was broad, I could walk up and down without let or hindrance, guiding myself, after the manner of other blind persons, by tapping my stick against the curb stone or the railings. Still I must take a few precautions to enable me to ascertain my latitude and longitude at will.

I came down the four steps which led from the front door, turned myself to the right, and, by aid of the line of railings, set my face towards the end of the street. Then I began to walk and to count my steps, sixty-two of which brought my right foot on to a road, which told me I had reached my limit. I turned, counted back the sixty-two paces, and then sixty-five more in the same direction before I found myself again off the pavement. My calculations were verified by my knowing that my house was very nearly in the centre of the row.

So, mightily proud of my success, for a while I went up and down—up and down. I heard one or two cabs pass me, and also one or two persons meet. As these latter seemed to pay no attention to me, I felt glad to think that my appearance and gait were not such as to attract notice. Most men like to conceal their infirmities.

Hope of Sight, Sometime, Came Like a Revelation.

This night excursion did me a great deal of good. Perhaps it was finding that I was not altogether so helpless and dependent that changed in a few minutes my whole frame of mind. The mental rebound took place. I went from despondency to hope—extravagant hope—even to certainty. Like a revelation it came to me that my malady was curable; that, in spite of my presentiment, what friends had been assuring me would prove to be the truth. Se elated I grew that I threw my head back and walked with a firm quick step, almost forgetting that I was sightless. I began to think of many things, and my thoughts were happier ones than I had known for months. I grew so counting my paces, I walked on and on, planning what I should do: where I should go when my darkness was removed. I do not know whether I may have strayed unguided myself by the wall or pavement edge; but if so I did it mechanically and instinctively, without noticing the action or remembering it afterwards.

I cannot say whether it may be possible for a blind man, who can divest himself of the fear of encountering unseen obstacles, to walk as straightly and accurately as any one who can see. I only know that in my preoccupied and elevated state of mind, I must have done so. Intoxicated and carried away by the return of hope, I may have walked as a somnambulist or as one in a trance. Anyway, forgetful of all save my brightest thoughts, I went on and on, heedless of the missing sense, until coming full against a person walking in the opposite direction recalled me, from my visions and brought me back to my misery.

I felt the man I had encountered shake himself free; I heard him mutter "stupid fool!" and go swiftly on his way, leaving me motionless on the spot where the collision had occurred, wondering where I was and what I should do.

Finds a Friend; But It Was the Blind Leading the Blind.

It was no use attempting to find my way back unaided. Not having brought my repeater with me I could not even say how long I had been walking. It might have been ten minutes, it might have been an hour since I gave up counting my steps.

I soon heard an approaching step; but such a staggering, uncertain, lurching kind of step, that from the sound of the feet alone I was able to determine the condition of their owner, and was obliged to decide that he was not the man I wanted. I must let him pass and wait for another. But the feet staggered up to me and stopped near me, whilst a voice, jolly, but like the feet unsteady, cried—

"Nother feller worsh than me! Can't get on at all—eh, old chap? Comfort t'think some one'e head'll ache worse than mine tomorrow!"

"Can you tell me the way to Walpole street?" I asked, standing erect to show him I was sober.

"Walpole street—course I can—closhe by—third to left, I think."

"If you are going that way would you lead me to the corner of it. Unhappily I am blind and have lost my way."

"Blind, poor beggar—not drunk then. Guess I'm in nice state to lead any one. Blind leading blind—both tumble into ditch. I shay, though," he added, with drunken gravity, "make a bargain—I lend you eyes, you lend me legsh. Good idea. Come long."

He took my arm and we went yawing up the street. Presently he stopped.

"Walpole street," he hiccupped. "Shall I take you to your house?"

"No, thank you. Please put my hand on the railing of the corner house. I shall be all right then."

"Wish I were all right. Wish I could borrow your legs to take me home," said my bibulous conductor. "Good night—Blesh you."

I heard him tack away, then turned to complete my journey.

I was not quite certain as to which end of Walpole street I was starting from; that mattered little. Either sixty-two or sixty-five paces would leave me in front of my door. I counted sixty-two, and then felt for the entrance between the railings; not finding it, I went on a step or two until I came to it. I was glad to have reached home without accident, and, to tell the truth, was beginning to feel a little ashamed of my absence and alarmed the house, and I trusted I should be able to regain my room as quietly as I had quitted it. With all my elaborate calculations, I was not quite sure that I had hit upon the right house; but if they were incorrect I could only be a door or two away from it, and the key in my hand would be a certain test.

I went up the doorsteps—was it four or five I had counted as I came out? I fumbled for the keyhole and inserted the latchkey. It turned easily, and the door opened. I had not made a mistake. I felt an inward glow of satisfaction at having hit upon the house at the first attempt.

"It must have been a blind man who first discovered that Necessity is the mother of Invention," I said, as I softly closed the door behind me and prepared to creep up to my own room.

What If He Had Wandered into a Neighbor's House.

I wondered what the time was. All I knew was that it must be still night, for I was able to distinguish light from darkness. As I had found myself so close to Walpole street I could not have walked for any length of time in my ecstatic state, so I fancied it must be somewhere about two o'clock.

Even more anxious than when I started to make no noise which might awaken people, I found the bottom of the staircase and began my stealthy ascent.

CHAPTER III.

In Danger.

SOMEHOW, blind as I was, the place seemed unfamiliar to me. The balustrade I was touching did not seem the same. The very texture of the carpet under my feet seemed different. Could it be possible that I had entered the wrong house? There are plenty of instances on record of a key having opened a stranger lock. Could I, through such a circumstance, have strayed into a neighbor's house? I paused; the perspiration rising on my brow as I thought of the awkward situation in which I should be placed if it were so. For a moment I resolved to retrace my steps and try the next house, but I could not be quite sure I was wrong. Then I remembered that in my own house a bracket, with a plaster figure upon it, hung near the top of the stairs. I knew the exact place, having been cautioned many times to keep my head from knocking against it. I could settle all my doubts by going on and feeling for this landmark; so on I went.

I ran my fingers softly along the wall, but no bracket could I find. My hand touched the tintel of a door instead. Then I knew, for certain, I was in the wrong house. The only thing to be done was to creep out as quietly as I had entered and try my luck next door.

As I turned to grope my way back I heard the murmur of voices—late as it was, there were people talking in the room, the door of which my fingers had so lightly touched.

I could not distinguish words, but

Drive Catarrh Germs From Nose and Throat

Only Way to Really End Catarrh is to Destroy the Germs Causing It.

The germs of catarrh breed, thrive and multiply by the million for up in the air passages of the nose, throat and lungs of every catarrh victim. You cannot get rid of the disease until you get rid of the germs.

You cannot kill germs with ointments or lotions or blood purifiers.

There is just one safe, sensible and invariably reliable way to reach and destroy catarrh germs and thus stop catarrh forever. Breathe into your nose, throat and lungs the medicated, germ-killing air of Hyomei which is made from the pure, healing oil of Eucalyptus combined with powerful germicidal ingredients which are certain death to every catarrh germ they reach. The air of Hyomei breathed deeply is so penetrating it reaches into every nook, corner and crevice of your nose, throat and lungs where germs can possibly hide or breed. It's an easy treatment. You'll like to breathe Hyomei. Its odor and effect is pleasant to everyone but the mischief making germs themselves. They don't like it, simply cannot stand it, and soon completely die out of your body, taking Catarrh itself with them. Hyomei is a standard preparation recognized by physicians and druggists everywhere. It is a small thought of here that Rikers-Hegeman Drug Stores and many other leading druggists in this vicinity sell it with an absolute guarantee of successful cure or money back. No catarrh sufferer, therefore, assumes any risk in giving it a trial. Tear this notice out of the paper now and show it to your druggist as you ask for Hyomei. Be sure to ask him for the complete Hyomei outfit, as this contains an inhaling device which is very necessary to use to get the best results. —Advertisement.

"CALLED BACK," HUGH CONWAY'S GREAT STORY OF MYSTERY AND ROMANCE

TO END CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing becomes easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

I was sure the voices were those of men. I stood irresolute. Would it not be better to knock at the door and throw myself upon the mercy of the inmates of the room? I could apologize and explain. My blindness would account for the mistake. Some one would, no doubt, be kind enough to put me on my right road home. Yes, this was the best thing to do. I could not go on creeping into strange houses like a midnight thief. Perhaps each house in the row had an equally common lock, and my key might open all. If so, the end would be that some alarmed householder would put a bullet into me before I had time to assert my innocence.

Just as I raised my fingers to tap at the door I heard another voice—a woman's voice. It seemed to come from the back room and was singing to an accompaniment played softly on a piano.

I waited and listened to the song. It was taken from an opera recently produced on the Continent, an opera not yet popularly known in England, and the song was one that few amateurs would dare to attempt. The singer, whoever she might be, sang it softly and under her voice, as though fearing to throw it out with full force. The lateness of the hour might well account for this restraint. Nevertheless, any one capable of judging must have known he was listening to no ordinary singer. It was easy to recognize the trained skill and dormant power, and imagine what, under favorable circumstances, that voice might accomplish. I was enchanted. My idea was that I had stumbled into a nest of professionals—people whose duties ended so late, that to enjoy any evening at all, night must be greatly encroached upon. All the better for me! Bohemians themselves, my unexpected nocturnal intrusion might not frighten them out of their wits.

There Was a Cry, a Change from Melody to Discord.

The singer had now commenced the second verse. I placed my ear close to the door to catch every note. I was curious to hear what she would make of the effective but trying finale, when—oh, horrible contrast to the soft sweet liquid notes and subdued words of passionate love!—I heard a gasp, a spasmodic fearful gasp, that could convey but one meaning. I heard it succeeded by a long deep groan, which terminated in a gurgling sound which froze my blood. I heard the music stop suddenly, and the cry, the piercing cry of a woman ring out like a frightful change from melody to discord, and then I heard a dull heavy thud on the floor!

I have been so occupied with complaining of the hardships of my lot, I have not told you I had one solace to my misery; that merciful gift, so often bestowed on the blind, music. Had it not been for this, I believe those weeks of darkness and uncertainty would have driven me mad. Had it not been that I could pass many weary hours away playing to myself, that I could be taken to concerts and hear others play and sing, my days would have been unbearable, and I shudder to think of what aid I might have called in to render them less burdensome—

I waited to hear no more. I knew that some dreadful deed had been perpetrated within a few feet of where I stood. My heart beat wildly and fiercely. In the excitement of the moment I forgot that I was not like others—forgot everything save a desire to prevent the accomplishment of crime—the wish to do a man's duty in saving life and succoring the ones in peril. I threw open the door and rushed headlong into the room. Then, as I became aware of the presence of strong light, but light which revealed nothing to me, the folly and rashness of my proceedings came fully home to me, and like a flash it crossed my mind that unarmed, blind and helpless, I had rushed into that room to meet my death.

Fell Over Prostrate Body; Then the Click of a Pistol.

I heard an oath—an exclamation of surprise. In the distance I heard the cry of the woman, but it sounded muffled and faint; it seemed to me that a struggle was going on in that part of the room. Powerless though I was to aid, I turned impulsively and took a couple of steps in the direction whence the cry came; my foot caught in something and I fell prostrate on the body of a man. Even in the midst of the horror that awaited me I shuddered as I felt my hand, lying on the fallen man, grow wet with some warm fluid which slowly trickled over it.

Before I could rise strong, muscular living hands were upon my throat, holding me down, whilst a short distance off I heard the sharp click of a pistol lock. Oh, for a light for a second! If only to see those who were about to take my life, if only—strange fancy—to know in what part of me to expect the fatal bullet. And I, who some hour or two ago lay and dared to wish for death, felt at this moment that life, even my darkened life, was as dear to me as to any creature under the sun. So I cried aloud, and my voice sounded to me like the voice of a stranger—

"Spare me! I am blind, blind, blind!"

BISHOP CODMAN TO BE BURIED MONDAY

Bishop Robert Codman of the Episcopal diocese of Maine died at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital without regaining consciousness after an operation Monday made necessary by a blood clot on the brain.

Mrs. Codman, a bride of three weeks, and a sister, Miss C. A. Codman, were with him at the end. Mrs. Codman had been at her husband's bedside constantly, since more than a week ago when he was taken ill while cruising along the Maine coast in his yacht.

Members of the Codman family say the funeral service will be in the Cathedral at Portland, Me., Monday, at 12:30 p. m. The body will reach Portland late today and will be taken to the Cathedral, where it will lie in state tomorrow and Sunday. Burial probably will be in the family lot in Forest Hills Cemetery.

Radcliffe Girls Save Dormitory Menaced by Fire

Radcliffe College girls are good firemen.

This fact was proved when a number of them quickly extinguished a blaze in Eliot Hall, the second oldest dormitory at the college.

The fire was caused by an alcohol lamp around which were seated several seniors enjoying tea. The lamp suddenly went wrong and the blazing alcohol streamed forth.

The dormitory fire alarm was sounded at once, and, while most of the dormitory occupants quickly marched out, grumbling somewhat at the second fire drill within a week, several others set to work with fire extinguishers and fire buckets and efficiently put the quietus on what promised to be a lively little blaze.

The dormitory fire captain, Anna Shaughnessy, '15, of Worcester, did not find it necessary to resort to the much-discussed rope escapes.

MRS. MOHR ASKS FUNDS FOR FAMILY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 8.—Judge Frank H. Hammill of the Fifth District Court, sitting at Warren, discontinued the cases brought against Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, George W. Healis, Coll Victor Brown and Henry H. Spellman, in connection with the murder of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr on August 21.

All four of the defendants in the District Court cases have been indicted by the Superior Court Grand Jury, and in view of this fact, action in the District Court is unnecessary. Judge Hammill discharged all four defendants from District Court jurisdiction.

This action releases $10,000 bail, which Mrs. Mohr gave after her arrest by the police. Mrs. Mohr is still under $20,000 bonds to await further Superior Court ties. The $10,000 bail was to insure her appearance before the District Court.

When court convened Chief of Police Robbins of Barrington told Judge Hammill that, in view of the fact that indictments had been found against the four defendants, he moved that the cases in the District Court be dismissed and the defendants discharged.

John B. Edwards, attorney for the three negroes, was the only representative of either side in the court room in addition to Chief Robbins.

Three petitions have been filed with the clerk of the Municipal Court in this city for Mrs. Mohr by her attorney. One petition asks for six months' allowance from the estate for the support of the family of Dr. Mohr, and a second requests the allowance of furniture. The third document seeks the appointment of Mrs. Mohr as guardian of the two minor children, Charles F. and Virginia B. Mohr.

Hearing on the last named petition will be held by Judge Stone, October 26, but it is doubtful if anything is done with the other two until Mrs. Mohr's previously filed petition for the appointment of an administrator for the estate is heard.

Estimates Loss in War at 8,000,000

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Since the war in Europe started over 2,000,000 men have been killed; the wounded number nearly 4,000,000, while the total number of prisoners and of missing is more than 2,000,000. These are conservative minimum figures compiled from the best average data, made public in Cullum Hall here by Brigadier-General Francis Vinton Greene, U. S. A., retired, in an address before the New York Historical Association.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." For sale by Riker-Jaynes and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

THE CONTEST PLAN

Each day, for 28 consecutive days, a picture will be printed in the Daily and Sunday American. Contestants must supply each picture with a title, using the title of a Movie Picture that shall be most fitting and appropriate, describing it most completely or fitting it most perfectly. The one supplying the greatest number of such "most fitting and appropriate" titles shall earn the first award; the one supplying the next greatest number shall earn the next award, etc.

There shall be no book of titles to buy. An official List of Movie Titles will appear, the first list appearing with the first published picture, and then each week in the Sunday American during the contest. This list will be the standard for contestants to use in selecting the titles for the pictures appearing during that week, beginning with each Sunday Official List Publication, and all titles selected for that week's pictures must be among those in and selected from this list.

THE JUDGES

Three Judges Will Decide Winners

A Committee of Judges, widely known for their reputation and ability, will decide which titles are most fitting and appropriate after full examination of all submitted. Judgment and skill only will be decisive.

The Man to Buy Triangle

Not the man who is betting on the Stock Market—

Not the man who can't afford to lose—not the widow or orphan—

But—

The man who looks into a business that offers a profit—and any man can look into this one—and who, realizing that a big profit business involves risk, is ready to back his judgment with his ownership of stock and his active interest. For this man helps the business—he takes people to see the pictures, and he talks about them afterward.

I, personally, believe Triangle Film will be a big payer of dividends.

But I don't want as a partner either the stock gambler or the man who will be seriously hurt if he should lose.

I appreciate the interest of brokerage houses who advertise it—

But

I deplore the effort of some of them to secure business by advertising the stock as "a good buy"—or that it is "going up," or even that it is "a good stock for the small investor."

If people want the best in motion pictures (as people seem to) Triangle Film will be a marvelous money maker.

But as an investment, it isn't like City Bonds, and shouldn't be so offered.

Triangle stock was not listed on the Curb to speculate in. It was not listed there merely to sell (for this Company had ample resources within itself).

It was listed on the Curb as the simplest way to get the greatest number of stockholders in the shortest possible time.

The number of stockholders is growing day by day (the list contains come mighty well known names) and every stockholder is worth a great deal to the Company.

To Stockholders

Don't let the manipulators tempt you to sell your stock simply because it is quoted several points above the price you paid for it. Don't let them frighten you into selling it by making quotations below what it cost you.

Don't rush in and buy more than you can afford, because you or some friend of yours happens to have seen "The Coward," for instance, at the Knickerbocker Theatre in New York. Not every picture we produce will be as wonderful a picture as that.

Don't buy Triangle Film "on margin."

If you believe in the company—its management, and its policy of producing the best possible moving pictures, by employing the most successful and best known of Directors, actors and actresses, backed by the great organizations of the Majestic and New York Motion Picture Companies—buy as much of the stock as you can afford to own—and put it away to bring its profit in dividend.

Whether the quoted price be 4 or 40, its actual value will not be changed.

If you don't believe in the Company and its policies, or if you can't afford to own your stock outright, let it alone.

Meantime—whether you bought it when it first came out—at $5.00 a share—or last week at $9.25—whether you bought 5 shares or 10 or 25 or 100—I believe that between now and Christmas you will be mighty glad you own Triangle Stock.

H. E. AITKEN,
PRESIDENT TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION.

Herreshoff Weds First Wife's Nurse

BRISTOL, R. I., Oct. 8.—Nathaniel G. Herreshoff, sixty-five, designer of cup defenders, and Miss Anne Roebuck, forty, of Providence, were married in the chantry of St. Michael's Episcopal Church by Rev. Dr. George L. Locke, the rector.

The bride, a nurse, was employed in the designer's home during the first Mrs. Herreshoff's last illness.

HANDY STOMACH REMEDY TO HAVE ABOUT THE HOME

Instantly stops indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn or acidity.

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

As there is often someone in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion, acid stomach, dyspepsia or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep Pape's Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy stomach in five minutes.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and other distress go in five minutes and relieves at once such miseries as belching of gas, eructations of sour undigested food, nausea, headaches, dizziness, constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common every-day cures advertised that they have almost made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of nervousness, gastritis, catarrh of the stomach or cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, gas and stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin. Pape's is sold by druggists and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

WOMEN TO VOTE AFTER WAR, DECLARES LADY ABERDEEN

Marquis and Marchioness of Aberdeen taking tea at the Plaza in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — Political equality for the women of England at the close of the world war!

This was the buoyant prediction indictated in an interview with the Marchioness of Aberdeen after her arrival on the American liner New York with her distinguished husband, the Marquis of Aberdeen, formerly Governor-General of Canada, and later Viceroy of Ireland.

"A great change has come over the people in the United Kingdom regarding political equality for the sexes," said her ladyship. "The women identified with the so-called heroic or militant party are now making every effort to aid their country in time of stress.

"This has caused a marked change in the people who once opposed them. Those who were most unyielding in their opposition are now the warmest supporters of our principles.

"This is due to the fact that the women of England have forgotten for the time their own troubles and have joined together to relieve the government in every way possible."

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely vegetable compound—and a mixture of olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin—bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—but have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10 and 25c per box. All druggists.

Take one at night and note the pleasing results.

BLAST HILLTOPS TO END CANAL SLIDES

PANAMA, Oct. 8.—The Panama Canal will remain closed until all danger of serious slides in the Gaillard Cut has passed, Major-General George W. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, issued orders to the working engineers to blast away the tops of the hills in order to bring to the channel all loose dirt and, if a permanent remedy be sought, permanently remove the source.

General Goethals was unable to say when the canal would be in condition again for the passage of ships. He said he would let November 1, the date to which the canal has been officially closed, stand until changed.

General Goethals expressed his personal opinion that the canal would be closed much beyond that date. There will be no effort to maintain a temporary channel for the use of a few ships.

When the canal is reopened the Governor said, it will be with a permanent channel through the cut.

Want Grove Street 'L' Cars Restored in West Roxbury

Residents of West Roxbury have petitioned the Public Service Commission to order the elevated to restore surface car service on Grove street to the schedule that prevailed before October 1.

Great injury is being done to people who use the line between Spring and Washington streets" the petition says. It is set forth that people living on that locality will, under the new schedule, be forced to wait twenty minutes out in the weather for cars instead of using the Forest Hills station as they have done for the past six years.

The case will be a public hearing on the petition on October 21.

Bulkeley H. Ludge 634 of the International Association of Machinists, has forwarded a written protest to the Public Service Commission against the approval of the Bay State's petition for six-cent fares, on the ground that the service furnished by the company is "inadequate."

REARREST FOR DR. DELANO IN DEATH CASE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 8.—Dr. Richard F. Delano of No. 270 Broad street, who was arrested on a charge of drunkenness in the course of the investigation of the death of Bessie Bertha Mogelever, today pleaded guilty to the drunkenness charge and was fined $2 and costs.

Shortly afterward Dr. Delano was arrested by Sheriff Andrew J. Wilcox in a $5,000 civil suit brought by Barnet Mogelever, father of the dead girl, on a serious charge. Sheriff Wilcox said that unless Dr. Delano furnishes $5,000 bonds he will be locked up.

Miss Mogelever, a twenty-year-old Pawtucket girl, has been employed by the doctor for two or three years. She died, physicians say, of morphine poisoning.

Miss Emily A. Delano, a New Bedford school teacher and a sister of the doctor, today told the story of how the girl came to her death.

"I came up from New Bedford Saturday night," she said, "to spend the week end here.

"Dr. Delano was busy till late that night and went to sleep with his clothes on.

"During the night the girl became ill and I heard her get up and go to the doctor's medicine cabinet, as she was no doubt accustomed to do.

"When I came up from New Bedford I brought with me a number of boxes of pills and medicine of different kinds from my father to my brother. I had put these in the cabinet. I do not know what they were.

"The girl must have got hold of one of these boxes by accident, for I heard her get out and I got out of bed and went in to the doctor's office.

"She had fallen, right beside the cabinet, and as she fell she knocked over a big four-quart bottle of some liquid, and it was all over the floor and she was soaked in it. She screamed.

"My brother, Dr. Delano, came running in from the other room, where he had been sleeping.

"He examined the girl swiftly. He saw she was beyond aid. He hurried her to the hospital, but she died there on Saturday.

"My brother, as soon as he had sent the girl to the hospital, telephoned to her family that she had no chance to live.

Chief Inspector O'Neil, when told of story by the sister, said:

"Dr. Delano has just told me exactly the same story."

Miss Mogelever was the daughter of Barnet Mogelever of Pawtucket, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital. Medical Examiner William H. Magill said she died from morphine poisoning and recommended to the Attorney-General that an autopsy be held.

No autopsy has yet been performed, nor ordered.

Attorney General Rice has said he will not direct any inquest, as he believes there is no evidence of criminal action.

Internal revenue officials have searched the rooms where the girl lived at Dr. Delano's home.

Henry D. Bell, a Providence attorney, says Mr. Mogelever has retained him to bring a suit against Dr. Delano in connection with the girl's death.

HARVARD STARS 'DICKEY' CLUB INITIATES

William J. Murray of Natick, president of the 1918 class at Harvard, has the unusual honor of being chosen as the first man out of 120 sophomores, for admittance into the Institute of 1770.

The first man tapped is the one whom the society considers has done the most for the class in its freshman year.

Morrill Wiggin, captain of the 1918 crew, and center on the varsity football team, was second man. George A. Percy of Arlington, freshman hockey captain, was third. Moseley Taylor of Boston, Tom Thacher, son of Ex-Congressman Thacher, and Tom Enwright of the football squad were others of the first ten chosen.

All except the men on the football team will spend the next week doing "Dickey" initiation stunts.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRIBON.

A large number of the automobile dealers and fans of this city left last night and are leaving today by limited trains for New York, where they go to see, weather permitting, the Astor cup race at Sheepshead Bay tomorrow. This event was postponed a week ago owing to rain, and the postponement seems to have no ill effect upon the enthusiasm of the spectators, or the support of the contestants. The change in date has made it possible for several additional cars to start and has given the men another week in which to put the finishing touches upon their cars, so that tomorrow every car and every man should be in prime condition. The additional elimination trials were held yesterday, and the time recorded by several participants was gratifying and indicative of great speed in the race. The knowing ones are confident that an average time will be pretty close to the 100-mile-an-hour mark.

Taylor, president of the corporation, as guest of honor. Mr. Taylor was made honorary members of the club.

WANTS CITY TO RUN ONE-CENT SWAN BOATS

Philip Davis, director of the Civic Service House of No. 112 Salem street, has written Mayor Curley urging that the swan boats in the Public Garden be hereafter run by the city, instead of on lease to private parties, and that the fare on them be reduced to one cent, so as to permit poor children of the North, West and South Ends to ride upon them more often.

"To do this," he urged, "would be the cheapest way of keeping hundreds of children off the streets during the Summer months."

Mr. Davis says further:

"There is no much reason for the city operating those boats as there is for the operation by the city for the numerous beaches of Boston. Indeed, this pond is far more precious because of its central location to the three most congested districts of the city, and in some respects of the world, than any beaches at all. The pond cover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

that our city can boast of. It represents today an investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars. To lease its privileges for $200 and thereby close these privileges to the children who need it most is the greatest injustice which our children have suffered for now nearly thirty-five years."

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning—if you have given up hopes of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Essrol. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

Why Not Have a Clear Complexion?

It is impossible to have a clear, smooth skin when the kidneys are clogged or are weak and overworked. Expel the waste and poisonous matter by taking two teaspoonfuls of Peruvinate in half a glass of water before breakfast each morning. You will be surprised to see how quickly sallow skin and blotchy complexion disappear. From any druggist you can get Peruvinate, which act on the liver, bowels and kidneys.—Advertisement.

May Save Son's Legs Without Operation

Refusing to allow surgeons at the Lawrence General Hospital to amputate the legs of his son, Peter Rocco, eight, of No. 64 Elm street, Lawrence, insisted upon having the boy brought to Boston for treatment. The child was taken over the road in an automobile to the Boston City Hospital, where it was stated that he probably would recover and that it might not be necessary to amputate his legs. The boy, Harlow Rocco, was run over by an auto truck.

SUED BY FORMER HUSBAND OF NEW WIFE

Dr. Franklin L. Warren of Bridgewater, who but a few weeks ago married the divorced wife of Edward B. Newton of Brookline, has been sued by Newton for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The plaintiff has filed a bill of equity in the Superior Court to reach an interest "late conveyed" in real estate mortgages in Plymouth County.

He declares that Dr. Warren has not sufficient property that can be attached to respond to damages that [illegible] in the sum of $[illegible], and secured an order of notice returnable next Monday.

Newton was granted a divorce from his wife in February, 1914, on the grounds of desertion. Her maiden name was Agnes Kingman. She was the daughter of the late Hosea Kingman of Bridgewater, a former district-attorney of Plymouth County.

They had been married twenty-six years. At the time Newton applied for a divorce he said he believed she was living in Paris.

It was brought out at the trial that the wife had remarked that she preferred travel to married life and intended to make her home in Europe.

Dr. Warren, who has a large practice in Bridgewater, was married to Newton's divorced wife at Nashua, N. H., about a month ago. They live in Bridgewater.

What Happened to Jane

Jane Receives a Letter from Ned and an Invitation for a Drive From Mr. Reeves

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER VII.

Copyright, 1912, by the Associated Editors

THE June days passed as if on golden wings. The clouds and rain that had been present during the first three days after Ned Sanderson's departure disappeared, and the sun shone once more and the air was fresher and sweeter than before the storm. And on Thursday mental sunshine came to Jane Hardy, for she received a letter from Ned.

He wrote that he had been so busy the early part of the week that he had not been able to send her a line, though he had thought of her often. He hoped to be able to run out to Milton on Saturday for a Sunday between now and August.

But at all events he was to have a fortnight's vacation during that month and all of it was to be spent in Milton. Would Jane try to keep as many days free as she could for that time so that he and she might have drives, walks and talks together?

"I am saving every cent I can," he added, "toward vacation fun. I don't mind plain living here in the hot old city when every bit of recreation I do without here means that I am to afford to loaf at the Milton Hotel and play golf and have an all-round good time for two with you as the other. That prospect is enough to spur

I need not have worried and reproached myself. After all, she missed Ned's letter more than I like that. The more she knew him the better she liked him. She sat there with the book lying out over the edge of the porch, her head in the best type of dream, and got him over a year ago when he had run out to Milton to see what the place was like.

A friend in New York had told him that there was a charming girl who lived in Milton and whom he ought to meet. He was in the mood for meeting people, and so he went. She was not there when he called, but he was asked to stay to dinner and meet her. She came in a white dress, her hair in her shoulders, fresh and cool and calm.

She had thought him good looking and knew him for a gentleman as soon as her eyes rested on him. He had attributed himself and said to her that he had come to see her. She had smiled quickly and said that she was going to church. He had asked Mr. Evans and his wife to come, and he was a devout man.

Later he had walked with Mr. Evans and the minister and had pleasantly to himself that he would feel that he would be welcome whenever he came. After the Dutch Reform

EVERYBODY HAD TIRED NED FROM THE FIRST

Everybody had [illegible] Sanderson from the [illegible] except Augustus Bridges. [illegible] had given a dinner [illegible] with the last [illegible] now, he was [illegible] girls [illegible]

Well, [illegible] Reeves who [illegible] self? And was [illegible] the use of [illegible]

Still [illegible] hand, as [illegible] matter? Surely Mr. Reeves could not really care for her. What had he?

She glanced at herself in the mirror opposite and, although she was not vain, she fancied for a moment that she read the answer there. She had been told by youthful admirers that she was the prettiest girl in Milton, and her mirror confirmed this statement now.

Wholesome and simple living, hours spent in the open air, an abundance of sleep and sane and happy thinking—all had tended to increase the charm of regular features and a good figure and complexion. Added to this, she had dainty taste in dress, fashioning most of her clothes with her own deft fingers and dressing in a way that suited her face and form.

"Jane's so stylish," other village girls would sigh. Anything she wears looks swell on her." Jane would smile when she heard such comments, wondering if it the girls did not guess that one secret of her small expenditure was that she avoided such garments as she knew would not look well on her. Good taste consists in the avoidance of certain clothes as much as in the wearing of certain others.

Her thoughts returned to the point from which they had started. Why was Mr. Reeves so attentive to her? And had she a right to let him get her a position in the Milton school without analyzing his motive in doing [illegible]

MR. REEVES COMES TO CALL ON JANE

She sprang to her feet impatiently. Surely her father and mother were the ones to be considered first of all. Her life work was to them. They needed her [illegible] If she could get a position here and could supplement [illegible] enough to [illegible] to [illegible] to fulfill this desire at her own home [illegible]

Anyhow it would be [illegible] until [illegible] for her to [illegible] that Mr. Reeves had more than a kindly feeling for her.

Her father's step [illegible] stepping at the front gate drew her to the window. Could he have been thinking of her [illegible] object of her thoughts [illegible] from a book. [illegible] took her arm at the [illegible] gate, [illegible] the path and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

QUAKER CITY SPECULATORS REAP HARVEST

L. A. B. RUCKER.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8. — The weather dampened the ardor of everybody, but hundreds of Philadelphians and New Yorkers remained all night at the bleacher gates for the opening at 11 o'clock of the sale of dollar seats.

The usual line of the night-sitting variety seemed to have no effect on Easy Street brethren. Those who were taken into custody were arraigned in police court on charges of disorderly conduct. They were held for further examination today, but probably will be discharged. To this the district attorney of Philadelphia demurred. There is no law against scalping and ticket speculators, some say.

Nobody is punished, it seems, for getting 1500 per cent. profit in some cases they are violating no brotherly love regulation unless they create a disturbance.

"SPECS" DEAL OPENLY.

The baseball authorities here say that they have done all possible to control the "specs," but the fact remains that they are playing the trade openly in every metropolis of the country. Last night, and yesterday, the ticket speculators were here in force. Many of them had come from Chicago, and were waiting for the big game. Will our Chicago friends please take notice?

To cash blow into the Delaware at Market to-day with a pocketful of tickets for Fogel Dell Rupperts all-star game at the Yankee Stadium in the Bronx.

tell all about the championship match. Besides these there are sport writers on the ground from every city in the country, and almost every ball player of the Phillies and Red Sox is toting around a contract to write for some publication or other.

On the ground today for the opening gun of the series there were fifty-seven telegraph wires for the use of the newspapers and all the press accommodations. Writers, operators, messengers and others in the publicity end of the huge ribbon event of 1915 baseball made up an army that would not be insignificant at The Dardanelles.

"WORLD SERIOUS."

You know me Al" was not so far wrong when he called this the "World Serious." The baseball championship is indeed a "serious" for those concerned. The players themselves today kept well out of the limelight. They were entrenched for the battle royal.

After the victory is decided will be time enough for them to be lionized by the eager throngs of fans.

When the Red Sox arrived last night from New York they quickly dodged the waiting throng of cheerers and dug themselves in for the night at their hotel. Players, managers and all concerned took it very serious. Their share of the World Series gate is the velvet of the ball players season.

The winners get the big shirt. Hence it is a World serious.

RUSH FOR SEATS IN PHILADELPHIA FANS BEGAN EARLY

By HERMAN NICKERSON,
Former Secretary of the World's Champion Braves.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct 8—In a little room on the second floor of the Bellevue Stratford this morning, the three members of the National Commission sat looking at the lowering clouds. Two umpires had been dispatched to the grounds an hour before to inspect the condition of the playing field, and had not reported back, but they evidently got lost or forgot to use the phone.

The three big guns of baseball did not wait for the sun broke through the clouds and Chairman Herrmann said, looking inquiringly at Ex-Governor Tener and President Johnson "Of course we must play." The president said "Of course," and Ban Johnson bowed his consent, and in this manner the momentous question was determined.

Out at the park at an early hour this morning the groundkeeper and his corps of assistants began their labor of putting the ground in something like presentable condition.

Three hours before the time set for the game to start the outfield was very wet and the base lines very soft and sloppy. The burning of gasoline was resorted to and men with barrels of sand filled in the wet spots. The sun was shining and the day was a mild October one, with hardly any wind stirring.

FIELD HEAVY.

At its best, however, the field was heavy, the infield especially being rough and soft. This seemed, in the impression of those who had followed the two teams closely, to give the Phillies the slight advantage.

Manager Carrigan, who was at the gathering of the commission prior to their short meeting, in company with President Lannin, as he left the hotel, said, "The boys are not bothered with the thought that they will play on a heavy field, as it will operate fully to my own advantage as well as the Phillies. The boys are out to win and my pitcher that may be sent against us will have to stand for the very best that is in our batting arsenals.

"I feel that while Alexander is a difficult man to bat, still we have the confidence that we can turn the trick."

The Red Sox held their last skull practice at the Alcine this morning about 10 o'clock, while Manager Carrigan went over his details for the attack. It was a meeting that did not last very long. The boys dressed at the hotel and arrived at the park about 12:30.

At the park long before the hour of 11, the advertised time for the gates to open, the crowd was of considerable size, and an hour later, when the band concert began, came the rush for the seats.

If there was ever any doubt, owing to the recent controversy between President Baker and the police authorities, that the crowd would not have proper protection, all such thought was set at rest at an early hour.

BIG POLICE DETAIL.

On all sides outside the ball park the presence of a large number of bluecoats was most satisfying, while the traffic arrangement seemed to be well-nigh perfect, mounted and motorcycle officers doing excellent work handling the early crowds inside the park. Seated on boxes on front of the low fence at intervals of, say, twenty-five feet, policemen were stationed to prevent encroachment upon the playing field.

Acting after an established custom, the National Commission decided to let the final umpiring be left to officials selected from among themselves which of their number should work behind the batter and on the bases. As this is a National League series no American League umpire is considered. The oldest umpire in point of service being Klem, he will determine balls and strikes, while O'Loughlin will be stationed on the bases with Rigler and Evans on the lines.

While Manager Bill Carrigan may not have remembered that upon a similar occasion to this one Fielder Jones refused to announce his pitchers prior to the game itself, he was following in the footsteps of that illustrious baseball manager Up to the time when the announcement was made to the crowd from the plate, it was not definitely known who would pitch for Boston.

Ten minutes later the champions of the American League appeared and marched to their dugout. The fans of Philadelphia greeted them heartily and the applause continued until they took off their overcoats for workout.

Carlisle Team to Arrive Here Today

The Carlisle Indian football team arrives in Boston today for its game with Harvard in the Stadium tomorrow. The squad includes twenty-four players. Coaches Kelly and Welch, Manager Meyer and Trainer Moran.

The team will hold a light practice session this afternoon.

The probable redskin lineup against Harvard will be:

Amherst Will Not Play Columbia Game

AMHERST, Oct 8—Amherst will not play Columbia in New York the latter part of November, it was learned today. The plan has been vetoed by the faculty. Coming, as it would, at least two weeks after the close of the regular season, and after the three hardest games Amherst plays, it was thought unwise to introduce another game into the schedule. Amherst and Columbia, however, are old football rivals, and it is hoped that a game may be scheduled for next Fall.

Sam Anderson Again to Coach Harvard

Sam Anderson, the well-known professional wrestler, has been secured again as coach for the Harvard team. Candidates for the team will report early in November for practice in the Henry Lee gymnasium. Anderson Weatherhead will not be able to start with the squad until December 1, because he is a member of the varsity football squad.

ALL NIGHT LINE FOR RUSH SEATS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Clad in raincoats and hooded with umbrellas, oilcloth and even old bagging fans of all ages and sizes, stayed in the line all night in the storm till today to buy rush seat tickets. Many remained in the line part of the night and were relieved at daybreak by others, thirty-third degree fans, who were willing to sacrifice anything to hold a position near the front when the real fight places for large sums of the coin of the realm.

The weather was somewhat cool and many of the fans, especially those who, on other occasions complained of the heat, were chilled to the marrow and were heard to petition for a return of the sultry hours if only for a moment. Overcoats were in great demand and many a big brother came to the long line in search of their "loved ones" with last Winter's comforters.

Debates between the fans in the line were constant and dealt with the respective merits of the players of the Moran and Carrigan clans. Frequently the talk would drift to the European war, and then shift to baseball. In this way the fans found it easy to forget their hardship in braving the elements. A great many of those in the line were sought there on speculation so they could sell their places just before the gates were swung ajar.

Occasionally boys would hover in sight with stools and boxes and offer them for sale to the highest bidder among the fans, who were only too eager to get them to rest their weary limbs during the long vigil. The dampness of the ground caused others to send their scouts scurrying for straw matting and planks to elevate themselves from getting cold feet.

Georgetown Team Is a Strong One

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct 7.—Now that Georgetown has defeated the Navy, all preparations are under way for a victory over Carolina. The Tar Heels are being coached by Logan Cunningham, who gave Princeton two championship elevens and they will come here on October 16 confident of winning from the Blue and Gray. However, they will find themselves face to face with one of the strongest teams in the East.

Coach Essendine, the old Carlisle star end, is delighted with the work of his freshmen backs, Maloney, Gilroy, Leighty and Wall. They combine more touchdowns. Georgetown rings around the heavier Middies and, but for the heavy going and numerous penalties would have scored four or five times. Georgetown was penalized at Annapolis a total of 165 yards. Frequently these penalties came inside of the scoring zone, cutting down the final score.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC
FROM MR. LEE SHUBERT:

I have received over 500 letters and telegrams from citizens of Boston and vicinity protesting against removing the play "EXPERIENCE" from the Shubert Theatre when its contract expires, Oct. 23.

As I cannot answer all of these personally, I take this means to communicate with all who have filed these protests.

All civilization is based upon man's honest struggling his work, which man eats with all who have filed these protests.

All civilization is based upon man's honest struggling his work, which man eats with all who have filed these protests.

I signed a contract with William Hinckley & Ray Comstock and Morris Gest for "EXPERIENCE" to appear at the Shubert Theatre for eight weeks, ending October 23d.

I have kept that contract.

I signed a contract with Joseph Brody & Company for production of "Tristan" at the Shubert Theatre, beginning October 25th.

I must keep that contract.

I signed a contract with Joseph Brody & Company for production of "EXPERIENCE" in Boston for two weeks, beginning Oct. 25.

I would gladly keep it if my obligations did not make this impossible.

I must keep faith with my associates, with the public with myself.

I thank the people of Boston and vicinity for the interest they have taken in this wonderful play, "EXPERIENCE," and I hope all I see will be able before it leaves Boston.

(Signed) LEE SHUBERT.

PLUNGING ON THE RESULT OF THE BIG SERIES ASSUMES ENORMOUS PROPORTIONS

FANS HOLD LINE ALL NIGHT IN RAIN

By FRANK G. MENKE,
Sporting Editor of the International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—The National Commission, at the Bellevue-Stratford, announced definitely that the initial game of the World Series would be played on the Phillies' field at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Umpires Klem and Evans had gone to inspect the grounds, but on seeing the sun shining Chairman Garry Herrmann did not wait for the report of the umpires.

More than a hundred men were at work on the grounds with brushes, scrapers and sawdust, and Herrmann said that, if necessary, gasoline would be burned over the pitcher's box, home plate and side lines before the game.

Immediately upon this announcement a wild cheer went up from the fans who thronged the hotel lobby. It was taken up by the crowd outside on the street, and soon echoed throughout Philadelphia.

At once there was a rush for taxicabs, street cars and trains, and the crowd with tickets made a mad scramble for the grounds, to join the bedraggled bleacherites who had waited in the rain all night long to gain admission.

When the advance guard of taxicabs hove in sight, the cheer that had rent the air down town was echoed by the tired and almost disheartened watchers in the long quest at the gates.

On the heels of the National Commission's announcement that the game would be played, the sun again went into hiding behind a mass of lowering clouds, but Herrmann declared he would stand pat.

The big question—who will pitch for Boston in the opening game—remained unanswered in an official way during the morning, but one of those inside tips from the Red Sox outfit was that Bill Carrigan would pin his hopes on Ernest Shore, his big right-hander whose work was one of the main factors in the 1915 uplift of the Red Sox.

EVEN MONEY ON SERIES.

While the players champed at their bit in their eagerness for battle, the fans infested the hotel lobbies seeking and getting bets—and an ever-increasing army of ticket speculators swarmed through the streets offering two $3 seats for an average of $10 a pair. The sellers became so aggressive in their buttonholing of every passerby that the police time and again had to drive them away from their bases of operations.

The plunging on the series grew to an immense scale during the morning. It seemed that everyone who had a dollar in his pocket wanted to wager it. The betting on the outcome of the series remained at even money while the Phillies continued as favorites in the betting on the first game at odds of 7 to 5.

A bet of $5,000 even was made early today, a Red Sox fan making the offer which was grasped up by five Phillie fans who contributed $1,000 each. A combination bet of $1,000 to $500 was made by a Philadelphia rooter that the Phillies would win the first game and the series.

FANS IN LINE ALL NIGHT.

One of the really pathetic features incident to the World's Series clash was the suffering endured by the 6,000 fans who waited in line for the unreserved seat box office to open at 11 o'clock.

All through the night they hald their places—men, boys and women, while the rain pelted down upon them, soaking them to the skin. When morning brought a drop in temperature many shivered as with ague and hundreds were driven from the line to their homes because of fear of pneumonia.

Because of the rain-soaked ground those in the line took a chance on lying upon the earth to snatch a few hours' sleep, and those who had not chairs or soap box seats had to stand—and endure the torture.

It was a bedraggled, weary, hag gard looking little army that faced the dawn—a sight that stirred a sympathetic feeling and caused one to ponder on the great hold that baseball has on the American public—a hold that makes them willing to endure ten to fifteen hours of agony for two hours of entertainment.

Pertinent Facts About World's Series Games

Here are principal facts concerning the World's Series games which are scheduled to start today at 3 p. m. in Philadelphia:

Contestant—Boston Red Sox vs. Philadelphia (National League) Club—Keep money on the series, and 7 to 5 that Phillies will win the first game.

Attendance at the first game probably will be in the neighborhood of 20,300 and the receipts around $53,000.

The National Commission will get 10 per cent. of the gross receipts of all games; the players will get 60 per cent. and the owners 40 per cent. of the balance.

Players, however, will share only in the receipts from the first four games. Clubs will get 90 per cent. of the receipts from all games over four.

Players on winning club will get 60 per cent. of the players' share, losers will get 40 per cent.

Forty-six players will share in the receipts, twenty-three on each side.

Ticket speculators have secured big bunches of tickets and they are selling around $35 for one pair of regular $3 seats.

First two games will be in Philadelphia. The next two games will be in Boston. If a fifth is necessary it will be played in Philadelphia. A sixth will be played in Boston. The place for the seventh game, if necessary, will be decided by the toss of a coin.

In case of postponement the teams will remain in the city where postponed game was scheduled.

Umpires—Rigler and Klem of the National League; Evans and O'Loughlin of the American League

WOOD KILLED IN TRIPLET.

Wood got his chance to pull his come-back in Washington last Saturday. He drew precisely the opponent Carrigan wanted Clark Griffith to send against "Smoky Joe." Walter Johnson, it was the first Wood-Johnson duel since 1912. That was the year he pitched one game better than Wood, the season the Missouri boy was the American League's premier sensation.

Johnson flayed Wood, in fact, the Boston southpaw did not survive the fifth route. It wasn't because Wood was hit and beat it are the fight was over that early. It was a matter of failure to serve up any red-hot shoots. Wood also went a few innings against the Yankees on the Polo Grounds Wednesday. He managed to dish out some effective stuff, as he outfielded, but exactly as happened in Washington, his fast ball was a bad imitation at best of his former sizzling speedy shoot.

Yes, this is a series the Red Sox must win without their old savior Carrigan refused to discuss what pitcher he will send against the Phillies today or tomorrow. However, the AMERICAN can assure all New England that Bill had made his choice, though he positively would not admit it, even to his dozens of pals among the local Rooters, who are here ready to repeat their masco service of 1903, 1912 and 1914 and make it three straight for Boston.

Killifer, the Phillies' brilliant young receiver, will be allowed to slip out of the American League when the St Louis Browns decides he wasn't a good enough hitter to hold on to his job, is out of the big show. Killifer did not do any catching for his clan of Moran the last thirty days of the championship season. His manager hoped that a good rest would put the strength back in his throwing arm and when Killifer is in form and peg ging his best he classes with Archer and Schalk, generally acknowledged the two throwing receivers in the major leagues

KILLIFER STILL A CRIPPLE.

Not only did the rest fail to help Killifer any, but the New York specialist who has been tinkering with his "whip" the past several weeks states that it will be suicidal for the Michigan boy to open the series. Killifer may be able to work in some of the closing games, but he is out of the start, that's certain.

Eddie Burns, a short chunky youth, one of the many natives of California in the two lineups, a former Montreal favorite in 10 cards Alexander, as well as serve as the battery mate of Chairman Mayer, the other two pitchers Moran intends sending against the Red Sox.

Burns is Moran's only southpaw and rumor has it strong that Eppa Jeptha is not going to be sent against the Red Sox. If such proves to be the case Carrigan won't be a bit mad, as left-handers caused his club more trouble than right-handers. Tigert Burns alone excepted, during the championship season.

Wellman, Hamilton and Koob of St. Louis; Mitchell of Cleveland and Covaleskie of Detroit were hard for the Hose all Summer. As Moran intends keeping Rixey in the stable, that should help the Boston cause all the more, as truth it is that the Red Sox have no particular liking for a left-hander.

BURNS A GOOD HITTER.

While Burns does not throw as well as Killifer, but then the Red Sox are not rated a base-running club. It is probably has a shade on Killifer when it comes to hitting. Morán and the Philadelphia players claim that the little fellow is a tip-top all around performer, and in praising him and prophesying that Killifer's loss is not going to hurt the club chances in the World's Series, point out that the Phillies travelled at their speediest clip in the stretch run, and that Burns was on duty behind the bat all the way in the drive to the wire.

Alexander claims that Burns handles his delivery equally as well as Killifer. Moran says the same thing. So how can Grover be heard from with any kick when the Red Sox meet him and the world's championship banner comes to Boston? Cady is to be paired with Shore today, or whenever it is that the first combat is staged.

Cady did practically all the catching for the Red Sox in the 11 series and did his full share of the good work in registering the triumph over Johnny McGraw's Giants. Carrigan has given Cady a good rest for the last week, and Forest should be on the top of his form.

SCOTT TO PLAY SHORT.

Isaacson as Carrigan sent Scott back to the shortfield position in yesterday's game in New York it appears a certainty that Everett will open at Jack Barry's infield associate. Scott was at his best yesterday. He drove out two clean hits and put up an 18-karat game on the defence

Despite reports to the contrary, George Whitted, the ex-Brave, will keep Dods Pasnet and Cactus Cravath company in the Phillies' outfield. Whitted had his left side caved in a fortnight ago when he crashed into a wall on the Phillies' green chasing a long drive but Philadelphia critics state that he moved over the end in great shape in Wednesday's farewell team bill with the Robins and that it is ridiculous to line George up with the cripples.

The Carrigan troupe is quartered at the Aldine Hotel. After losing to the Yankees on the Polo Grounds yesterday, the club made the ride over to Philadelphia on the 7 o'clock express. Ng the Lennig, together with his wife and family came over with the club. The two pulled into Broad street station at 9:16 and the players rode out to the hotel in taxies. Just as soon as Business Manager Roth Ehret, Patsy Donovan had seen that the players had been assigned to their rooms, they got their keys and promptly retired. At 10 o'clock the lobby was absolutely barren of Boston players.

Followers of the Phillies don't see how Al Xander can be beaten in his first start. The betting is 7 to 5 that he gets over. That was likewise the price on his Brooklyn last night. Two more enthusiasts of the Moran shooters claim that the betting is going to even money. Six to five was the morning price and Boston bettors did not experience any trouble getting their money covered.

AMERICAN CONTEST WINNERS LEADING "FANS" AT OPENER

The rousing send-off given the twenty-five winners of the Boston AMERICAN'S World's Series Contest in their departure at 5:30 last night from the South Station, for the first game of the series, broke all records for enthusiasm. It was the greatest send-off ever.

As the Federal express pulled out at exactly 5:34 p. m. it had aboard twenty-five loyal, cheering, jolly baseball fans, representing every State in New England. It left behind over 200 friends who had come to the station to see their winners off and to cheer them on their way. It was indeed a jubilant demonstration, and the huge train shed resounded with cheers until the train was out of view.

The winners represented nineteen men who had polled the largest number of votes irrespective of residence, and six men who polled the greatest number of votes in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

EACH MAN GIVEN CARE.

As early as 2 o'clock the aggregation commenced to arrive at the Promotion Department of the AMERICAN in Winthrop square. For a while the office resembled a baggage room. As each one arrived he was introduced to the other winners by genial "Tom" Headley of the Promotion Department, who is to act as guide and representative on the trip.

"Tom," who, by the way, is one of the best known fans in the country comes naturally from Philadelphia and who counts many of the players in the series as his close friends, saw to it that each man was duly recorded, and then called the roll. Each man responed with a shout.

Then came the pictures, but not until each man had been presented with a hickory cane, silver tipped, with a pennant, and bearing the following inscription:

BOSTON AMERICAN
WORLD'S SERIES
1915

CHEERS FOR AMERICAN.

Then, too, they had huge RED ROX banners and large pennants. Every body wore a smile, too, and it was the kind that won't wear off. After the photographer had cautioned them to look at the "Birdie," they bounded like a lot of school boys for their baggage and started for the station.

Here their wives and friends met them with three cheers for the winners, three cheers for the Red Sox and three cheers for the AMERICAN.

A few moments before train time they piled aboard their special sleeper which took them directly to Philadelphia. They will arrive this morning at 8:30. They will then proceed to the Aldine Hotel for breakfast and then ride to the town with the rest of the fans. Then for Big Solter "Tom" Headley will keep the AMERICAN readers posted on the doings of the twenty-five winners through a special column.

PICK BOSTON TO WIN.

Each of the winners was loud in the praise of the AMERICAN for making possible such a trip. They, too, desire to express their heartiest thanks to their friends, who made the trip possible.

James A Flannagan of 34 Billerica street Boston, who has thousands of friends all over New England and who polled 243,973 votes although being denied the use of his limbs as a result of sickness, was one of the jolliest in the group.

Sam Haase of No. 8 Lena Park Dorchester, who broke the record with 347 098 votes, said

"I know I voice the sentiments of every man on the trip when I thank the AMERICAN and our loyal friends, who have brought this trip to a realization. We're certainly a grand old bunch of Red Sox Rooters, and just tell our good friends that if our enthusiasm, cheering and support will assist the grand old Boston team to win the coveted pennant, why, just tell them we will do everything in our power and then some."

MEMBERS OF PARTY.

Henry Albracht of Windham, N H., said: "More power to the Red Sox and the AMERICAN. This will be a great trip and I'm willing to bet our presence will have something to do with the winning of the pennant for the Red Sox. I take this opportunity in thanking my friends who fought for me. I shall never forget their loyalty."

So it went right along down the line. Every one was indeed grateful to their friends and desired to have them know it through this column.

Rheumatism Easily Relieved By Cleansing the Blood

S. S. S. Gives Quick Relief by Toning Up the Blood

Yes, but how? A natural question. The answer is that you must cleanse your blood by stimulating it to healthy, vigorous action, so that it will throw off the germs and impurities that cause Rheumatism. The action of the wonderful blood purifier, S. S. S., is to positively renew the life blood, give it vigor, stimulate the flow making it throw out the germs and the poison impurities. The excruciating pains of Rheumatism, whether it is the shooting, stabbing Sciatica, the gripping agony of muscular Rheumatism, or aching arms and legs that break up sleep will be entirely relieved by S. S. S. Don't use nostrums and drugs. Take the blood bath—Nature's blood tonic. S. S. S. Get it at any druggist, but insist upon S. S. S. Send for booklet "What the Mirror Tells." or if yours is a peculiar case, write S. S. S. Co., Atlanta, Ga., but begin treatment at once.

Here's the Big News

Mayo's is always good news for the pipe. It scores a clean "beat" over any other smoke in the press-room. Hustling, wide-awake New England printers and pressmen are good judges of type—and they know that Mayo's Cut Plug is the best type of rich, sweet, pleasant smoking tobacco.

Mayo's Cut Plug tobacco just suits the man who wants an all-day-long, year-'round pipe-smoke—always mellow and comforting, sweet and satisfying.

Mayo's Cut Plug

We use pure Burley leaf in Mayo's—carefully aged to make it delightfully mellow and rich and fragrant. Then Cut Plug, so it packs well in your pipe, burns evenly and smokes cool and pleasant.

Mayo's is the famous "always good" tobacco. For over 40 years Mayo's has been made in the same factory, by the same people. That's why Mayo's quality has never varied—has never failed to give healthful enjoyment and satisfaction.

Sold everywhere in handy 5c packages.

GREAT CROWDS IN PHILADELPHIA FOR FIRST WORLD'S SERIES GAME

By DAMON RUNYON.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—In easy striking distance of the dollar gates of the old baseball yard of the Phillies at Huntington and Broad streets, a motley army of men and boys were bedded down last night in packing cases filled with straw, or hunched up in coveted doorways, awaiting the charge upon the bleacher seats for the opening game of the World's Series today.

A cold Autumnal rain is leaving the city of Brotherly Love Dripping and chilled and generally miserable, the ramparts of the night preserve the semblance of a line which stretched nearly all the way from Fifteenth street to Broadway on the avenue. Here and there a woman was seen.

NOTABLES PACK HOTELS.

Downtown the hotel lobbies are packed with notables of the baseball world. On the sidewalks in front of every hostelry raises hungry hordes of ticket speculators. Everywhere there is a hum of gossip—stories of ticket scandals, rumors of Jobs against the local baseball magnates by the Philadelphia civic uprorites and politicians, whispers of unsafe stands at the Phillies' field and some talk of the baseball game that is scheduled for today.

The squawk of the exasperated Philadelphia "fan" fills the community. The cramped yard of the Phillies club will seat about 21,000 people and all the seats have been allotted save about 7,500 bleacher seats, which were tossed to the waiting line at Broad and Huntington this morning.

Old-time "fans," followers of the Phillies who have been spending their money at the ancient ball yard year in, year out, hoping almost against hope for the scene which will be enacted today, say they have been forgotten, and are unable to get tickets.

Yet you could step out of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel into Broad street and buy a brace of seats without any great trouble. You could buy them, but you would have to pay as high as $40 for a set of pasteboards that have a value of $5. These are the $5 seats. For the $2 seats the speculators modestly asked $25 to $20 per set.

And it is only fair to say that the speculators don't appear to be in possession of any considerable number of tickets. Most of them are trying to buy, rather than to sell.

SPECULATORS SEEK TICKETS.

In other years when the Athletics were playing in the championship games, the "specs" would be lined up all along Broad street from the station to the Bellevue and all were in a selling mood. They had plenty of tickets but today they skidle through the crowds crying offers to purchase.

The local police began chasing them away later, but they always bobbed up again, insistent and persistent.

Among the numerous rumors floating about was one that the police had tried to "shake down" the Philadelphia baseball management for a big bunch of tickets, threatening to withhold police protection if the tickets were not forthcoming, but the coppers seemed active enough against the "specs."

As a matter of fact, the Philadelphia ball club had only 12,000 tickets to give out. Of that number the National Commission clutches 1,500 under some inalienable baseball right which has been a deep mystery. Then there are some twenty-two stockholders in the club, men who bought stock at a time when Philly stock was not generally regarded as worth more than a very few bars of song, and these stockholders had to be taken care of.

The Philadelphia club is headed by a New York man, but most of the Philadelphia Stockholders live here and they have their friends who suddenly developed a startling interest in the Philadelphias after they won the pennant.

Each of the dozen or so newspapers in Philadelphia get 150 seats, where each had fondly anticipated several hundred and the ensuing outcry may well be imagined.

By the time the management got around to old friend Chief Hoi Polloi it declared to its intense astonishment that it was absolutely out of tickets. Twelve thousand had scarcely gone anywhere at all. Wherefore, Hoi Polloi gets what is technically known as "the work." 'Twas ever thus.

Even some of the proudest and most distinguished baseball magnates known to the national pastime were waiting around the Bellevue because they had been denied all the seats they wanted.

That crowd today is not going to be a very large crowd as baseball crowds go, but it is going to be a mighty exclusive crowd. It is going to be chiefly exclusive of dear old Hoi Polloi.

BAKER FORMER POLICE HEAD.

It was related that the Philadelphia chief of police made a particularly heavy demand upon President Baker of the Philadelphia club for seats for up-State officers of such laws as prevailed in Pennsylvania, and he was sore when his demand was refused. Baker used to be a Police Commissioner of New York, but he seemed adverse to having his yard populated by just policemen. The row seems to have been adjusted, but the groans of the bereaved "fans" still annoy the hearing.

A day or two of rain is bound to produce additional reams of scandal of one sort or another, but the tale of greatest interest bearing a scandalous tinge was to the effect that a plot was on foot to have the temporary stands at the Philadelphia field condemned as unsafe. It was said that the plotters were persons who were irritated because they had failed to get tickets, but at this writing nothing had come of the horrible conspiracy. Most likely it was just a rainy-night yarn.

FIREMEN HOLD STAGE CENTRE.

The chief excitement yesterday in Philadelphia was created by a parade of visiting firemen from towns in various parts of Pennsylvania. A State convention of the fire fighters has been in progress here and yesterday afternoon a long line of red and blue shirted and bewhelmeted gents tramped through Broad street behind blaring bands playing the popular airs, while the crowds cheered vigorously.

Bill Shettline, who has been connected with the Philadelphia club as manager president and now secretary for over twenty years, is chief of fire company located in Philadelphia suburbs, and it was his greatest ambition to march down Broad street at the head of his outfit, bearing a speaking trumpet, but his life was practically blasted because he had to stay in the ball yard chasing with infuriated "fans."

As the fortunate applicants for the grand stand seats appeared they were besieged by speculators who offered all manner of money for the pasteboards until they were finally dispersed by the police.

John K. Tener, president of the National League; Ban Johnson, president of the American League; Garry Herrmann, chairman of the National Commission; John Heydler, secretary; Harry Hempstead, president of the Giants; Colonel Ruppert and Captain Huston, owners of the Yankees, and scores of other baseball magnates and famous players have arrived here. A great throng of newspapermen from all over the country got in during the day and night.

The prospects of the postponement seems to bring much joy to some Philadelphia rooters. They figure that it will give Pat Moran a chance to throw Grover Alexander at the Red Sox Saturday and Monday, and no one here denies that Philadelphia's greatest hope in the battle is the big fellow from the little town of St. Paul, Neb.

ROLLINS TO PLAY IN ENWRIGHT'S POSITION

Coach Haughton will give his Harvard football charges but light practice this afternoon in preparation for the game with the Carlisle Indians tomorrow at the Stadium. The team is ready for a hard struggle, and just enough work to keep the athletes full of "pep" will be handed out.

An hour's scrimmage was held yesterday and the varsity team showed great improvement in the offensive playing. Three touchdowns were scored by straight football against the seconds and the coaches were pretty well satisfied with the work.

Much time was spent by the coaches with the backfield men. The loss of Tom Enwright, who will be out of the game for about a month with his wrenched knee, is felt and the coaches are working hard to develop a player to fill his shoes.

In the game against the Indians tomorrow Rollins will likely play the fullback position. Rollins is a good man but not the same football player that Enwright is. Captain Eddie Mahan and King will probably start the game at the halfback positions. The experience of Dallas aids him in getting first call for the position left open by Enwright. Whitney and McKinlock are both good players but have not played as good ball as Rollins has shown as much defensive headwork.

In the scrimmage yesterday three touchdowns were scored. Rollins made one on an end run which covered 40 yards. Substitutes were in the varsity line at this time, and it was not until late in the afternoon when the regular backs were on the field that any more scoring could be done. The line worked better, but was still somewhat loused. Soucy was excused from scrimmage yesterday. Weatherhead and Gilman are still holding off also.

Here is the lineup of the first team, and it will probably face Carlisle in the Stadium Saturday in the same order—Le., C. Coolidge; Lt., Parson; Lg., Dadmun; c, Wigglin; rg., Cowen; rt., Bigelow; re., Hartt; qb., Watson; lhb., King; rhb., Mahan; fb., Rollins.

New Varsity Shell for Yale Crew

A new shell has been presented to Yale University by Louis E. Stoddard, which will, however, be kept for the Spring race. New oars have arrived from England. This announcement was made by Coach Guy Nichols at New Haven yesterday.

World's Series Sidelights

By "SIDELIGHTS"

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—They're off. After an all night rain it cleared up at 7:30.

* * *

The first combat was played on a muddy track, but under asure skies.

* * *

Bill Klem called the balls and strikes. Silk O'Loughlin rendered the base decisions, while Rigler and Evans were the field judges.

* * *

Reading is what the Red Sox did all morning. There is nothing to it but that Hugh Fullerton stories scored the literary triumphs of the advance matter.

* * *

George Foster read Fullerton at breakfast at the Aldine Bughey says Foster will lose his game 4 to 2. "I'll be glad to take that game if I don't get a winner, but I think I'll turn in a victory," remarked the little Oklahoman.

* * *

Mrs. Forrest Cady and Mrs. Babe Ruth saw the game side by side.

* * *

That right field fence is very short. It looks as if a good throwing right fielder should get as many assists as the second baseman.

* * *

The Phillies park is a band box. A cigar box. A joke.

Standing in the Grounds League: Boston first, Phillies second.

Standing in the Grandstand League, Boston first, Philadelphia a bad second.

* * *

Among the sporting experts on the job are Fullertons and Nickersons from Cuba, Jacksonville, and St. Petersburg in Florida, Montreal, Denver, and a lot of other distant points.

* * *

At 12.40 the Champion Phillies came through the little gate in the bleacher entrance, marching across the field, with the crowds in the bleachers shouting encouragement. Manager Moran with a ball bag in his hands brought up the rear. He quickly discovered that the base paths were still very wet and he ordered some more gasoline poured on.

* * *

Carl May's parents from Portland, Ore., reached Philadelphia today, having made the ride across the country to cheer for the Red Sox.

* * *

Alexander and his ragtime band walked across the muddy field at 12.40. They looked spick and span in their new uniforms of white, black stockings, the letter P in black over their hearts and a black peak to their caps. The Phillies' World Series sweater is a dark blue, with the letter P in white.

* * *

"Buy or sell," was the Philadelphia cry on Broad, Chestnut and Market streets, as well as at all the hotels. The speculators certainly got their share of the pasteboards.

* * *

Hummel's Band did the honors before the game.

Four song shouters marched across the field with the Phillies and helped out in the entertainment before the crowd jammed its way into the park.

* * *

Big item: Chester Thomas got a telegram from Dr. Poage and John Bates of Shelbina, Missouri, at game time saying that the whole town was "pulling" for the Red Sox. Thomas spent his boyhood days in the Missouri hamlet.

* * *

Charlie Herzog, manager of the Reds, was an early arrival. It is Huck's tip that Alexander will win every time he starts and that the Phillies will take the series in six games. But then Herzog is a National League man.

* * *

George Stallings and Johnny McGraw passed through Philadelphia, the "Miracle Man" on his way to his Georgia plantation and the manager of the National League tailenders on his way to Baltimore to play the Laurel races.

* * *

George Chalmers is the Phillies' second hope in the Big Show. Slayer is also figured a sure starter, but Rixey isn't going to show at all, according to rumor.

* * *

It was exactly 12.52 when the Red Sox strolled across the field to their dugout.

* * *

The Carrigan party arrived before the Royal Rooters opened. Hence there was scarcely a ripple of enthusiasm directed their way at the moment.

* * *

President Lannin didn't buy any new suits for the Red Sox. They are togged out in their regular championship traveling uniform of light gray, with red striped stockings.

* * *

Bill Carrigan and Pat Moran clasped hands over the home plate at 12.58, and in a jiffy fully 60 photographers snapped them.

* * *

From an artistic standpoint, not to forget the money, it is a shame that half of the games were to be played in the Phillies' park. It is anything but a palace, like the two Boston parks or the pair of the palaces around the two circuits.

* * *

The Phillies started batting practice at 1 o'clock. Demaree pitched to the batters, while Moran stood behind him, retrieving the returned balls.

* * *

Dick Hollitzell played first base while the Phillies' practice was on. The Red Sox did some light limbering up in the left field corner.

* * *

They were selling $5 seats at the box office at game time.

* * *

Carrigan attended the National Commission meeting at the Bellevue-Stratford. As soon as it was over "Bill" hurried back to the Adelphia for a star chamber conference with his assistants.

* * *

Bill Killifer says he will get into the series before it is over.

* * *

Shore and Alexander posed for the photographers, shaking hands.

* * *

Killifer donned the mask and pad and caught Demaree's offerings while Alexander practiced

ALEXANDER AND MORAN HARD TO BEAT

By AL DEMAREE,

Pitcher for the Philadelphia Nationals.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8.—The dopesters have been busy tearing our records to tatters in comparison with the Red Sox. After reading a few writeups about our chances in the World's Series, I am convinced that we have no more chance of winning the series than the White Sox of 1906 or the Braves of 1914.

One critic mentioned our pitching staff and remarked that Alexander was the only pitcher Moran had. Well, what better pitching staff does a manager need than the big fellow? Alexander is such a bright star in the pitching firmament that he completely outshines the rest of the Philly hurlers. He makes us look like candles compared with the sun.

PHILLIES HAVE GOOD PITCHERS.

None of the "wise guys" can see any one but Alexander the Great, and no wonder. It is hard to see any one else with him looming up in the foreground. However, the critics completely overlook the fact that Moran has several swifters besides his big gun who can be depended upon to put up a great battle against Carrigan's crew.

Chalmers has been pitching an article of ball record only to Alexander. He has not won many games, but he has turned in game after game of finely pitched ball. You cannot ask more of a pitcher.

Mays is capable of beating the best in the game when he is right, and Rixey has plenty of stuff to stand the Red Sox batters on their ears if his control happens to be cool.

McQuillan would probably turn in a good game if called upon, and your humble servant might even win a game.

The critics, in looking me over this year, remember only that I lost seven straight games early in the year after an injury in my first game, and overlook the fact that since that losing streak I have turned in thirteen victories and three defeats. In other words, since about July 1 I have won .765 per cent. of my games, which is traveling at a fair clip.

HARD TASK FOR SOX.

A lot of people are conceding the second game of the series to the Red Sox because they believe Moran will have no twirling to stack against Leonard, or whoever Carrigan sends to the box. This is a mistake. We may lose that second game, but any pitcher Moran selects for the second game is very liable to hold the Boston clan down to a very low score.

Anything can happen in a short series. The best twirler on the team may lose a couple of games, and one of the second-string pitchers come through with a couple of fine victories. Personally, I look to see the Phillie twirlers hold the Red Sox batters down to low scores. They have been pitching that kind of ball all year, and the chances are they will deliver the same brand of pitching in the World's Series.

On paper the Boston team may look a little better than our club, but one must consider the fact that we have been travelling at a great clip for the past month. Our batters have got in their most effective work during the last thirty games. They are playing better ball now than they were two weeks ago.

Luderus and Cravath are liable to break up any game against the best of pitching. Both sluggers seem to hit better against good pitching than inferior twirling.

BREAKS MAY DECIDE SERIES.

Cravath usually gets his home runs in tight games where they are needed.

It is useless to compare the teams man for man, as every fan can know what each man has done. Then comparisons don't amount to a hill of beans in a short series.

The series may depend upon one or two breaks of the game. One hit, falling safe by inches may decide which team will be entitled to the world's championship. One little slip in fielding may turn the tide one way or another. A great play may be the deciding factor.

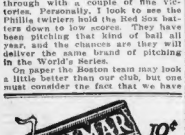
In such a series everybody is entitled to a guess. Some people pretend to know how the games will end. They are guessing and know it, but seem to hope they can fool some people.

We all have the greatest confidence in Alexander. It would be impossible to feel otherwise after watching him win thirty games this year. However, Alexander may be beaten and still Moran's club win. Most people do not consider it possible, but it is.

None of us know Moran's second choice, but whoever it is selected will go in there with enough stuff to win if the breaks are at all favorable.

It is needless to say that I hope to face the Red Sox in at least one of the games. If Moran gives me the opportunity I will do my best to win for him. Whether that will be good enough time will only tell.

If you want a good tip on the series go allow about betting against a team that has a manager like Moran and a pitcher like Alexander. If Alexander is right it doesn't matter much what the rest of the team does.



B. C. Squad Off for Bowdoin Contest

The Boston College coaches put their men through the stiffest drill of the year at University Heights, yesterday afternoon in preparation for their opening game with Bowdoin at Brunswick, Me., tomorrow.

Escorted by a large number of students the team left early today for Brunswick. In the squad were: Coaches Mahoney and Prendergast; Manager Frank Reynolds, Captain Jim Duffy, Daly, Dee, Bradley, Murray, Dulles, Sullivan, Rooney, Charles Fitzgerald, E. Fitzgerald, Kirke Torry, McKenna, Reagan, Austin, Donovan and Wall.

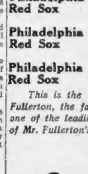
This is the twelfth of a series of articles on the World's Series by Fullerton, the famous baseball statistician. Mr. Fullerton is recognized as one of the leading authorities on the national pastime. Here is the twelfth of Mr. Fullerton's articles:

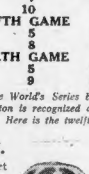
By HUGH FULLERTON.

Illuminate the Common, let the Sacred Codfish and the Stewed Clam fox trot up Commonwealth avenue. Hang crepe upon old Bill Penn again and drape the scrapple and the planked shad in black pepper. Boston wins. The dope says so.

After the hardest doping in the history of the World's Series, the figures declare that the Boston Red Sox are the world's champions and that the series now about to start will return to Boston the flag that Philadelphia claimed on first mortgage until the Braves foreclosed on them, in the name of Boston last year.



Wood



Rixey

The figures are indisputable. Boston has the stronger team in every department, the best fortified against accident, and the analysis, reduced to its final form, proves that Alexander will not be able, alone, to overcome the handicap and, by his own pitching, overthrow the five stars of the Red Sox.

The latest obtainable news from the inside of the two camps is that Killifer's arm is not yet in proper condition. He injured the arm by careless throwing and, against Moran's orders, tried to work before it was ready, setting himself back again. He probably will be able to work in part of the games, but the arm is not what it was and that cuts Philadelphia's strength considerably. Burns is a hustling, aggressive and willing worker, brainy and full of promise, but he lacks the class of Killifer and he lacks the experience.

Phillies Pitchers Are Now Showing Good Form.

The report from the Philly camp on third base is that Stock will start the series, but Byrne is in condition to play, his finger, which was broken, has mended, and Moran probably will have him in the games early to gain through his experience.

From the Boston camp the only "bear" news is on Scott and Barry. Scott is said to be going bad and it is rumored that unless his work picks up Jacobs may be in the series also. The inside Boston "fans" are discouraged a bit about the showing of Duffy Lewis. They say he is dull and off color at bat and hitting in poor style. Since Lewis needs encouragement rather than criticism, this is a bad sign. Barry has had carbuncles and, although Boston claims he is all right, a carbuncle does not help base running.

The report on pitchers is better. There is no acceptable alibi in the case. Alexander has had a fair rest during the closing fortnight of the season, perhaps just enough. Chalmers is pitching better than he was, and Rixey is being prepared for one big game, which means a great deal of difference in the outlook and a big difference in Philadelphia's chances.

The Phillies' great hope appears to lie in that one game. They know that if Rixey happens to have a big day, no club in the world has the license to hit him at all. I expected to find that the cops would show him due for that big day—but it doesn't. He figures to be beaten, and, in fact, I expect that he will fail and that Mayer, in all probability, will finish the game for him.

Moran knows that a good left-hander, working right, troubles the Red Sox terribly and that by using a left hander he forces Carrigan to switch first basemen and weaken the Red Sox defensively. But it does not seem as if Rixey can be lucky enough to pick a good day. The odds are against him, although Moran is a magnificent judge and has been getting Rixey ready for the test.

So far as knowing the team work of each other, neither side has much advantage. If there is any, it lies with the Phillies, since a swarm of Moran's admirers and friends in Boston have been keeping the closest kind of watch on the later work of the Red Sox and reporting everything worth while to the Philly leader. Moran used to play in Boston; he is a Massachusetts boy and very popular there.

These little details may help, especially they may help a man of the Moran temperament who studies the methods of his opponents very closely.

Little Heavy Hitting Is Expected in Big Clash.

There are two facts about the series that seem settled. First, that it probably will be the lightest hitting World's Series in a long time, and, second, that the two teams are about the worst base running clubs in the two major leagues. That helps out Moran in his plight for catchers and makes Killifer's crippled arm of less consequence.

However, the doping is done. All that remains is for these teams to get out there and earn their money.

The best dope is that the first game is to be a battle of speed and we are to have a visual test as to whether Joe Wood can throw a ball faster than Grover Alexander. Having drawn in a seat near Walter Johnson, we hope to get some valuable pointers on that question from an authority.

Moran is figuring all the time upon saving Alexander as much as possible, and if Rixey shows himself in form, "Alex" will not even be called upon to warm up on the second day and, therefore, will get two days' rest, counting Sunday.

The weather man may cut a big figure also. A couple of days of rain would bring Alexander into condition to pitch the entire series, and I am informed he is ready and willing to do it. If Moran says the word, Leonard looks so good, and due to Carrigan's logical choice for the second game, with Shore or Foster for the third. Ruth has not been working as well lately as he was in midseason.

As for overconfidence on one side or depression on the other, there is not a sign. The Red Sox aren't overconfident. They saw what happened to the Athletics last Fall and are keyed up for the struggle. The Phillies know they are facing a ball club that is their superior in strength in many departments. They rely upon team work, hard work and pitching. If anything, their nervous condition is the better. Moran has kept the temper of his men well under control. I was with them during the final fight in the West to hold their lead in the National League and they were not worrying. They were playing the games one at a time and not fretting about World's Series or games to come.

Pat Moran Only Has Contract for One Year.

Their temper is that of the fellow who has everything to win and nothing to lose and they are going out there to fight for everything in sight—you may rely upon that. Also, you will find them a better ball club on the field than they appear on paper to a lot of the critics.

It looks all Red Sox to me. I can't see a logical chance for the Phillies to grab more than two games, but I hope my eyesight is poor. I'm not naturally prejudiced in such matters, but last Spring the Philadelphia owners refused to give Pat Moran more than a one-year contract, and if he wins a world's championship—Gee, in his place, we'd be practicing making ciphers now to add to the club figures.

Gallant Out to Beat Callahan in Atlas Bout

The return battle between Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea and Frankie Callahan of Brooklyn promises to be a better one in many ways than the first conflict this pair of sluggers engaged in when Callahan was awarded the verdict over the Chelsea lightweight in one of the fastest lightweight bouts of the season.

A knockdown in the opening round was what virtually gave Callahan the the edge in points, and earned him the decision at the conclusion of the bout. Gallant does not look for a repetition in this next meeting, and is confident that it will be Callahan who will take the flop to the mat this time.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Yes, the Ballot WILL Give Women More Self-Respect

The Editor Who Does Not Understand That Is a Pinhead

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

IDA HUSTED HARPER, in answer to a question by former Chief Justice Cullen of the highest court in New York, "What do the women expect to gain by the suffrage?" says, "First of all, they expect to gain self-respect and greater respect from men."

A little editor, belonging to the class who keep a dog because they like to have something that will lick their feet when kicked, and whose opinion of women is not very far from their opinion of dogs, asks this question:

"How does dropping a ballot beget an annex of self-respect?"

The intellectual pinhead opines that women ought to have the greatest possible self-respect WITHOUT the ballot.

You respect another when he has POWER.

You respect yourself when you have POWER.

Self-respect is a feeling based upon the ability of SELF.

Would the editor who asks the silly question not lose some of his self-respect if he suddenly found himself classed by law with Indians, idiots and children? The women are so classed, and they cannot respect themselves as they should and as men should WANT them to respect themselves while they are classed with the idiots.

The ballot would give woman more self-respect because she would feel that men in giving her the right which BELONGS to her had expressed the belief that she WAS ENTITLED TO SELF-RESPECT.

The editor would not let his dog vote because he lacks respect for the intelligence of that dog.

He would not let an idiot vote because he lacks respect for idiots.

And when he opposes women voting he does so, whether he knows it or not, because he lacks respect FOR WOMEN. That is true of all of those who try to keep from women the right which they demand for themselves.

In what way would the ballot give woman greater self-respect?

In many ways.

Before election she would say to herself, to her sisters and to men, NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME DISCUSSING POLITICS WITH HER AS AN EQUAL: "Such a bad man I shall help to defeat. Such a good man I shall help to elect. Such a cause will get my indorsement. Insufficient school accommodations will get my rebuke at the ballot box. Dirty streets I shall punish; morality in public life I shall reward."

Before election she would speak in that way, and after election she would contemplate with increased self-respect the results of her voting, rejoicing in having rendered a service to her country, to the poor, to the children, to the cause of good government.

When a great architect looks upon the cathedral that he has built does not that increase HIS self-respect? You wouldn't say to him, "Why do you want to BUILD a cathedral? Respect yourself without it."

The man would say, "I must accomplish something, and upon that accomplishment base my self-respect."

And woman says to the various pinhead gentlemen who vainly fight against suffrage, "Let us accomplish something, let us take our share in building a decent civilization. And let us base real self-respect upon real accomplishment."

The ballot will increase woman's self-respect, and above all things it will increase and demonstrate men's respect for women.

It will compel the politicians to ask themselves over and over, "What do these WOMEN want? What do they want for their CHILDREN?"

Don't you think it would be a pretty good thing for the men in office to be compelled to ask themselves those questions? Or do you think it better to retain present conditions in the city slums where bosses rule and say to their henchmen, "Give that man all the whiskey he can drink, and he will vote with you; never mind the old woman and her daughters; they have no votes?"

Don't you think it would increase the self-respect of "the old woman" and her daughters if with their ballots they could close a half-dozen of the ginmills near the miserable home that whiskey leaves them, and attack whiskey and gin at the fountain head?

Vote to give women the ballot!

Once-Overs

Are you making any special effort to improve each day?

Are you advancing along your line of work—growing into a bigger one?

Are your anxiously awaiting the hour when you may quit and go home to prepare for an evening's amusement?

Are you the kind who says, "I give my time when I am here, and that is all I am paid for; if they think I am going to give all my thought to their business they are much mistaken"?

If you belong to the above classes, you are doomed to be a fourth-rater all your life.

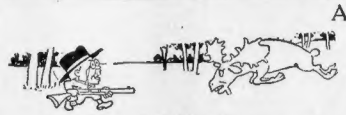
—More Truth Than Poetry—

By James J. Montague

Alibis

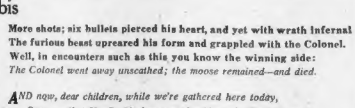


Colonel Roosevelt explains that he killed a moose out of season in self-defence.

THE moose's eye was red with hate, the moose's brow was stern;
His pose proclaimed a purpose that no mortal man could turn.
And as the Colonel gazed on him and fumbled for his gun.
He saw that one of them must die before the fight was done.
For, while the hulking brute advanced upon him pace by pace,
Instinctively he knew the moose had recognized his face.

A SHOT rang out; the moose surged on, emitting roar on roar;
His jaws a-drip with gleaming foam, his flanks besmeared with gore.
More shots; six bullets pierced his heart, and yet with wrath infernal
The furious beast upreared his form and grappled with the Colonel.
Well, in encounters such as this you know the winning side:
The Colonel went away unscathed; the moose remained—and died.

AND now, dear children, while we're gathered here today,
Suppose that Mr. Perkins' moose should get in Teddy's way;
Suppose, so vividly acute the situation got,
That either Teddy or the Moose must perish on the spot.
If by the chance of war the Moose should be the one to die,
Would Teddy, do you think, be left without an alibi?



Otherwise the Job Would Be Rather Unpleasant

There is one nice thing about being a general in the European war. None of the fans dare come near enough the lines to start the yell of "Take him out!"

Why Tamper with It

The French are to make munitions out of absinthe, forgetting that absinthe in its natural state is far more deadly than it can be in the necessarily weakened and diluted form of munitions.

There Is Such a Thing as Going Too Far

In Hartsdale the volunteer fireman, lacking a chance to show their prowess, built fires in sundry residences and responded nobly to the alarm. Now the Hartsdale people are wondering if the coroner will take the same means of securing an opportunity to do his duty.

The Force of Habit

Henry Ford has got so interested in inventing submarines that before he knows it he'll have spent that ten million dollars anti-preparedness fund on periscopes and torpedoes.

Meaning Henry F-rd*

Henry had a large, fat sack
Extremely full of dough,
And everywhere that Henry went
The Doo was sure to go.

If this keeps up we shall have to have an all day and all night Stock Exchange.

What Can You Do About It

This season women feel that they are modestly dressed so long as their chins are carefully concealed.

Discipline and Training Will Overcome Dual Natures

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

YOU say that your nature is double, that life
Seems more and more intricate, complex and dual,
Because in your bosom there wages the strife
'Twixt an angel of light and a beast that is cruel:
An angel who whispers your spirit has wings,
And a beast who would chain you to temporal things.

I listen with interest to all you have told,
And dow let me give you my view of your trouble;
You are to be envied, not pitied; I hold
That every strong nature is always made double.
The beast has his purpose, he need not be slain,
He should serve the good angel in harness and chain.

The body that never knows carnal desires,
The heart that to passion is always a stranger,
Is merely a furnace with unfelted fires;
It sends forth no warmth while it threatens no danger,
But who wants to shiver in cold safety there?
Touch flame to the fuel! Then watch it with care.

Those wild, fierce emotions that trouble your soul
Are sparks from the great source of passion and power;
Throne reason above them, and give it control,
And turn into blessing this dangerous dower.
By lightnings unguided destruction is hurled,
But chained and directed they gladden the world.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

A GIFTED and cultured man complains that his nature is "dual," and he is in despair of ever reaching any standard of conduct which will satisfy his own ideals or the expectations of his friends.

"I am cursed with a dual nature," he says. "There is a good angel within me, bidding me strive for the heights, and there is the wild beast pulling me down into the dust and treating me with fierce emotions."

Another intelligent acquaintance, a woman, declares we cannot change our natures. "We must live our lives," she asserts, "on the plane where we belong, doing the best we can with the inherited traits given us. I am born with a jealous nature," she further declares. "I know it is despicable and that I lose my friends by it, but of course we cannot change our natures."

What absolute nonsense!

What the artist does with formless clay, shaping it into marvelous beauty, we can do with our whole chaotic natures.

What the artisan does with the marble, chipping and measuring and following a given design, we can do with our characters, making them into the "image of God."

The harshest human voice can be trained by constant study and practice into an expression of exquisite harmony; the body can be trained to perform marvels of motion upon the trapeze or tight rope; the athlete who begins by swinging dumbbells and lifting light weights ends as a Sandow and lifts a horse.

What can be done by the physical man can be done in tenfold ratio by the mental and spiritual man.

Quick temper and irritability can be controlled and eliminated. Each time the angry word is withheld and the nervous mood overcome there is a step upward into calmer and sweeter atmosphere. Jealous thoughts are the result of selfishness and wounded vanity. They do not indicate love, as so many jealous people flatter themselves. Some of the most loveless people I have ever known were insanely jealous.

A little time of self-analysis each day, and a sober realization of the waste of life and its opportunities for happiness by indulging in jealous moods, will help any intelligent soul to overcome the fault, if earnest prayer and a deep desire to rise above it are added. Forcing the lips to speak words of praise of the person who has inspired any unreasonable jealousy is an excellent method of self-conquest.

Every human being possesses some admirable and praiseworthy quality, and praise can be honestly bestowed if we seek for that quality and compel ourselves to utter it, instead of the belittling criticism which jealousy suggests.

Strong passions and appetites can be held in leash if we call on the higher traits of our mental and spiritual nature to assist us. Every normal, natural human being possesses a dual nature. We all came from the God source, and we all pertain to the earth, or we would not have been given life on this plane. The dual sex impulse is in everything existing. He who does not possess it is an incomplete being. He is a thing of putty.

Passion is the creative instinct.

God never could have made the universe had he not glowed with sacred fire.

No man or woman devoid of this emotion, or weakly endowed with it, ever achieved any great thing on earth. It is the control and conservation of the passions for the holiest of purposes and occasions which build great characters and vitalize body and brain.

Just according to our intensity of nature is our strength of will. But the majority of human beings give rein to the passions and appetites and let the will die of disuse.

There is nothing we cannot overcome, nothing we cannot control, nothing we cannot be, do and become, if we look to the God within us and respect ourselves and our emotions and our impulses as expressions of divinity. Self-conquest, self-control, self-development, all lead to heights of power and plains of peace.

And each time an unworthy or unhealthy impulse is overcome, just so much new strength and power are given to the worthy and normal characteristics.

When a child is born with a tendency to use its left hand in place of the right, the left hand is tied to its side and the right arm taught to be useful. In a short time the awkward tendency is overcome and the proper use of the right hand developed by practice.

Just exactly so the wrong tendencies of the nature, the baser emotions and appetites can be controlled and the right ones called out more strongly in our "dual natures," if we choose to take the trouble.

Self-development and self-perfection are the purposes of life. But the average mortal finds, for a time at least, that self-indulgence is more agreeable than self-control.

I say for a time, for in the long run we have only to observe the men and women about us who have lived lives of self-indulgence to see how far from happiness that road leads.

It is a significant fact that many a man who goes into prison from indulgence of his appetites and passions, which he claimed he could not control, comes out, after a term of hard labor and plain fare, stronger in body and younger in appearance, despite the shame and sorrow he has endured.

The divine nature in every soul is far more powerful than prison regulations if men would put it into use.

It is not that we cannot, it is that we will not, control our dual natures.

We all possess them.

Christ himself was tempted.

"Go roll the stone of self away
And bid the Christ within thee rise."
